The rapid manner in which lots are being sold at Oak Hill Place has prompted us to establish an office on the ground for the convenience of purchasers. The terms upon which the lots are sold, being only $50 cash and $10 per month, give every one an opportunity to secure a home site or a real estate investment where property is bound to rapidly increase in value. Oak Hill Place is located on the south side of Tower Grove Park, midway between Grand Avenue and King's Highway; the Pine Street Electric Cars go direct to the property every three minutes. The prices placed on the property range from $10 to $16 per foot, and as it is high, healthy, well drained and contiguous to city water and electric lights, it is unquestionably the cheapest and best property in the city for the money.

Our branch office is located on the northwest corner of Arsenal Street and Morgan Ford Road (Arsenal Street is the southern boundary line of Tower Grove Park and the street on which the Pine Street Electric Cars run), where our representative can be found every day until September 1, from 10 a. m. to 6:30 o'clock p. m.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 30.—There will be 150,000 men engaged in the Russian autumn maneuvers. It is stated that Emperor William intimated his desire to witness these maneuvers, the most important of the year, but that the Czar politely but firmly conveyed the idea that no foreign potentate would be granted that privilege.

Central American Affairs.

CITY OF MEXICO, Aug. 30.—President Barrilias' cabinet resigned yesterday in a body to show their disapproval of his action in signing the treaty of peace with Salvador. The President will form a new cabinet at once. Gen. Martin Barrundia, the revolutionist of San Jose, Guatemala, was shot and killed by Government officers last Monday. It was known Barrundia was on board an American steamer passing and the port captain with a guard boarded the boat and demanded the fugitive. Capt. Pitt, after being shown papers for his arrest, conducted the party to Barrundia's cabin. Barrundia was informed the captain had given him up. Filled with rage and desperate Barrundia opened fire on the party, but only gave one shot when he fell pierced with a dozen bullets. His body was taken ashore.

About Gen. Boulanger.

PARIS, Aug. 30.—The Voix du Peuple publishes a letter from Gen. Boulanger in reference to the recent reports concerning his actions during the periods when he commanded a French army corps and was Minister of War, in which he declares that he has been treacherously misrepresented, but says that the moment for telling the whole truth has not yet arrived. The same paper states that Gen. Boulanger had an interview with Count de Paris last September.

The Figaro to-day charges Gen. Boulanger with promising to support a project for the restoration of the monarchy and with intending to betray the country.

M. Rochefort publishes his declaration that no one connected with the Intransigeant ever received a sou from the treasury of the Boulangists. Count Dillon, he adds, had announced his fortune to be at the disposal of the Boulangist cause, and no reason, therefore, existed for the supposition that the Royalists supplied its adherents with money.

The Figaro has received a request from the Duchess of Uzes that her name be not connected with matters pertaining to the Boulanger affair. The request is couched in peremptory terms.

The Seizure of the Mattie C. Dyer.

VICTORIA, British Columbia, Aug. 30.—The sealing schooner Mattie C. Dyer arrived here yesterday afternoon from the North for repairs. She was seized at Ounalaska, June 18, by the United States Deputy Collector Emmons, the schooner having gone in there in distress on the day previous. Capt. Mackler informed the authorities that he had not transgressed the sealing laws nor offended the customs regulations. When the case was brought before the court it was dismissed, the judgment being that the vessel had been seized for probable cause. The vessel had seventy-seven seal skins on board, all of which were returned except three when taken to Sitka. The schooner was put ashore and grounded, when the officers went through her. The Captain and crew were taken ashore and confined in the old Baranff Castle, where they were kept for three weeks. The authorities took away the skins, sails and all vessel findings. The grounding has caused her to leak badly, and she came here to be overhauled. The Captain says the seals seized had been taken at least thirty miles from any shore on the North Pacific and that the man who made the seizure was a new official.

Disastrous Floods.

VIENNA, Aug. 30.—The River Rhine has overflowed its banks and inundated Vorariburg, the extreme western district of the Austrian Empire. In that district the villages of Albach, Hohenems, Hoech, Lustenau and Fuessach have been flooded, and a number of bridges have been swept away by the flood. Many lives are reported lost. The heavy rains continue throughout Switzerland. In the canton of Grisons numbers of bridges have been swept away, and postal communication with the towns and villages of the canton has been suspended, the roads having been rendered impassable by a landslip on the St. Gothard range. The Alpine district of Aribergis is also cut off.

The Liquor Traffic in South Africa.

LONDON, Aug. 30.—Gen. Jubert, the noted leader of the Boers, represents in an interview that terrible misery has been caused among the natives of South Africa by the liquor traffic. The General says that in 1884 he warned King Umbandine of Swazziland that gold concessions and drink would destroy the country. Umbandine did not heed the warning and three years later he was a hopeless drunkard. Disease and drunkenness are making havoc among the native tribes, notwithstanding the efforts of the missionaries.

Increasing Duties on American Products.

PARIS, Aug. 30.—It is now positively asserted on the best authority that the French Government has decided to prohibit the importation of the entire list of American pork products and at the same time to increase the duties on all American products exported to this country. It is hoped that such action will have the effect of changing the present illiberal spirit of the American Congress.

Caught in an Alpine Storm.

ROME, Aug. 30.—Two Italian tourists recently attempted to ascend Mount Cervin in the Pennine Alps. On the way up they were surprised by a terrific storm and forced to flee for their lives. Their guide expired on the way and, when the tourists arrived at Mermatt, one of them was found to be disfigured for life by having his face cut with pieces or ice, while the other had both hands frozen.

Relief Measures for Ireland.

DUBLIN, Aug. 30.—Mr. Jackson, one of the Joint Secretaries of the British Treasury, and Mr. Sankey of the Irish Board of Works are making a tour of the Northwest of Ireland for the purpose of reporting as to what relief works shall be inaugurated in order to assist the people in case of famine arising from the failure of the potato crop.

Suppressing Irridentists.

VIENNA, Aug. 30.—The Fremdenblatt publishes an article to-day congratulating the Italian Government upon the measures it has adopted for the suppression of the Irridentists and declares that they will have a most favorable effect upon the relations between Austria and Italy.

BERLIN, Aug. 30.—The cellar of a brewery in Stoetteritz, Saxony, in which a number of men were at work collapsed to-day, burying sixteen of the workmen. Of these seven were killed and the remainder were severely injured.

Canadian Crops.

TORONTO, Ontario, Aug. 30.—The Manitoba and Northwest harvest is now probably beyond the reach of accident. The yield of grain and roots is such as was never surpassed and seldom equaled in any country. Four days ago the reaper commenced and miles of grain were falling in bound sheaves from the reaper and binder. The crop is light in the United States and elsewhere. Sixteen million dollars will come into Manitoba and the Northwest for wheat alone. How much Canada will get for oats and potatoes cannot be calculated, but they will get a good round sum.

Le Progress du Saguenay of Montreal confirms the previous report of the failure of the crops in that district, and says that never have the prospects been so discouraging as now. The failure of the crops is to be attributed to dry weather and frosts. It says that many families are preparing to emigrate to the United States to obtain employment in the cotton factories as they are unable to obtain enough to live on. The journal believes it to be the imperative duty of both Governments to do something to prevent the exodus.

Bold Attempt to Rob a Paymaster Near Cincinnati.

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 30.—About 10 o'clock this morning when the train on the Big Four Road stopped at Addyston, where the extensive ironworks of the Addyston Co. are located, a few miles from Cincinnati, the paymaster of the company alighted carrying a satchel with the money for the payment of the men. Its value is variously estimated at from $11,000 to $20,000. Along with him was the Superintendent of the works and an assistant. Hardly had they started toward the works when a desperado appeared with a drawn revolver and bandit-like demanded the money. Mr. Burns, the paymaster, and his companions were luckily not without the means of defense and for answer they quickly drew their weapons. The robber discharged his weapon and instantly started to run, spurred on by the rapidly discharging revolvers in his rear. He succeeded in getting away, though it was thought he carried a wound with him. The melee so confused the engineer that he started his engine ahead and soon crashed into some freight cars on the siding, damaging both the cars and the engine. The thief has not yet been caught.

THE NATIONAL CAPITAL.

CLAIMS AGAINST THE GOVERNMENT ARISING UNDER THE EIGHT-HOUR LAW.

Bills for Their Adjustment Discussed in the House—Acts Signed by the President—Reciprocity Favored—Edmunds' Resolution—The Harrison Party—Tariff Debate in the Senate—Washington News.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 30.—The House this morning devoted an hour to debate on the bill for the adjustment of the accounts of laborers, workmen and mechanics arising under the eight hour law. The measure was earnestly advocated by Caruth of Kentucky, Dingley of Maine, Covert of New York, Morrill of Kansas, Flower of New York, Wade of Missouri, Reilly of Pennsylvania, Osborne of Pennsylvania and Farquhar of New York.

Mr. Chipman of Michigan characterized the bill as a makeshift, a "good-enough" Morgan until after the election. It meant nothing, it would do nothing, and in his opinion it was intended to do nothing. Instead of sending the claims to the Court of Claims, Congress should send them to the various departments for computation, and then Congress should make the necessary appropriations. He would vote for the bill because the laboring men seemed to desire it, but he thought that they should have asked for a stronger measure.

Mr. Brewer of Michigan took substantially the same view. He asserted that the men who had worked in the navy yards had entered into a contract with the Government to work ten hours and had been paid for ten hours' works. To say that they took the work under protest and that they ought to be repaid for the extra two hours was too ridiculous an argument to be presented in this body. Too true was it that the great body of the people to-day had seemingly come to the conclusion that the government in some way has a duty to perform in supporting the people, instead of the people supporting the government. They seemed to think that there was in this capital city a fountain of wealth which poured forth greenbacks, gold and silver in untold quantities and that it was the duty of Congress to so legislate that this money should be divided among the people and this was the reason that they were asking for special legislation.

Pacific Railways Funding Bill.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 30.—A minority report on the joint Pacific Railroads funding bill was submitted to the House to-day by Representative Dalzell of Pennsylvania, the chairman of the Pacific Railroads Committee. The bill covers the Central Pacific and Union Pacific roads. The report, which is signed by five members, says that while the minority agree in their opposition to the proposed measure, their agreement is based on different reasons, and it has been deemed advisable therefore to refrain from individual views and to join in a report which shall simply express the common dissent of all to the majority bill.

Continuing, the report says that some members of the minority are clearly of the opinion that legislation looking to the refunding of the Pacific Railroad debt to the Government is premature at this time, and that changes that may occur in the financial situation between the present time and 1897—when the debt will mature—may prove any action taken at this time to have been unwise. Funding acts can as well be passed, says the report, years hereafter when the real relations between the Government and its debtors can be intelligently grasped. The opinion prevails with some members of the minority, it is stated, that the history of Pacific Railroad construction and management is such as to render it improper that the Government should enter into composition with the railroad companies. The minority are unanimous in the opinion that the railroad companies are not justified in asking any arrangement upon business principles, except upon the basis that they shall secure the uttermost farthing of their debt. They are not satisfied that the true condition of the railroad companies has been frankly and honestly presented to them and are clearly of opinion, they state, that the majority bill does not secure to the United States all ought to have or that the companies are able to pay. All agree, says the report, that as a plain business proposition, the bill reported gives an unjust advantage to the debtors and fails to do justice to the government, and for that reason they feel themselves compelled to oppose its passage.

Signed by the President.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 30.—The President has signed the meat inspection bill and the agricultural college bill.

The following bills have also been approved:

An act for the relief of settlers on railroad lands.

An act making appropriation for additional clerical force to carry out the provisions of the Dependent Pension laws.

To move the charge of desertion against the record of Noyes Barber, on the rolls of the Navy Department.

An act to change the time of the sessions of the Circuit and District Courts for the Western District of Missouri.

An act to authorize foot and carriage or railroad bridges across the Mississippi River near St. Paul.

An act to authorize the construction of a bridge across the Columbia River, Oregon, and the sundry civil appropriation bill.

Edmunds' Recess Resolution.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 30.—Senator Edmunds' resolution calling for a recess of Congress instead of an extra session has aroused considerable interest, and is supposed by Democrats to be an evidence of Republican bad faith. Quay and Gorman agreed that the election bill was not to be considered at this session. Now the Republicans want a recess; the adjourned session will be considered a new session, and the election bill will be taken up in violation of the agreement. The House Republicans favor the resolution.

Indorsing Reciprocity.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 30.—The Department of State has received a copy of the following resolution, which was passed by the Detroit Board of Trade on the 26th of August:

Resolved, That the proposition of the Hon. James G. Blaine to secure free markets for our peculiar products in the sugar-growing nations of the world in exchange for the removal of the duty on sugar by the United States is wise and patriotic and should be adopted by Congress in the interest of the agriculturists and manufacturers of this country.

Importers' Claims Disallowed.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 30.—In a letter to the Collector of Customs at New Orleans, the Treasury Department has disallowed the claim of certain importers on jute bagging. The bagging was injured by rain while deposited outside the warehouse. The importers were notified of this fact, but did not remove the bagging, and the Department has disallowed the claim on the ground that it cannot properly be termed a "casualty."

Anti-Lottery Legislation.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 30.—The Committee on Post-office and Post-roads has consented to hear arguments on the question of excluding from the mails newspapers which contain lottery advertisements. Ex-Congressman Beriah Wilkins of Ohio, one of the owners of the Washington Post, will speak against it.

The Harrison Family.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 30.—A special from Cresson Springs, Pa., says: The Harrison party evidently enjoyed a good night's rest in the bracing mountain air, for it was 10 o'clock before any stir was noticeable at the Park Cottage. Mr. and Mrs. Geo. W. Boyd breakfasted with the party. The day is bright, clear and pleasant and a drive to some of the many places of attraction upon the mountain is on the programme for this afternoon. Dozens of guests are arriving by every train and the house will soon again be crowded as it was in the heated summer months.

Nominations Sent to the Senate.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—The President this afternoon sent the Senate the following nominations: To be United States Consuls, J. F. Healy of Minnesota, at Funchal; J. B. Richardson of Kansas, at Matamoras; J. J. Peterson of West Virginia, at Tegucigalpa; Wm. A. Judson to be Postmaster at Chelsea, Mich.

The Senate.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 30.—Mr. Morgan presented resolutions of a colored mass-meeting in Birmingham, Ala., against the passage of the Federal election bill.

Mr. McMillan asked to have the House resolution taken up and passed, granting fifteen days' leave annually to clerks and employes in first and second-class post-offices, but Mr. Edmunds objected on the ground that its consideration would occupy time. The bill, he said, involved a good deal of money, as the leave of absence provided for would probably necessitate the employment of extra hands.

The following bills were taken from the calendar and passed:

The Senate bill appropriating $50,000 for a site and public building at Sheboygan, Wis.

The House bill as to the construction of a railroad bridge across the Little Tennessee River at Niles Ferry, Tenn.

The tariff bill was then taken up, the pending question being on Mr. Carlisle's motion to strike out the wool paragraphs (357 to 369) so as to place wool on the free list.

Mr. Aldrich gave notice that on Monday he would move on that day, Tuesday and Wednesday the Senate should take a recess from 5:30 to 8.

Mr. Daniel addressed the Senate in support of the amendment.

Facts demonstrated, he said, that the high tariff on wool and woolens had been a complete failure. If that high tariff had been designed to stimulate the American manufacture of woolens it had failed. If the design had been to increase the number of American sheep, the cultivation of flocks and the wool clip it had failed. If the design had been to decrease the price of wool it had succeeded. The high duty had not checked the importation of foreign wools because these were necessary for the utilization of American wools.

Mr. Hawley replied to some of Mr. Daniel's allusions to the decay in connection with agriculture and reminded him that the tendency of population toward towns and cities was common in all States and Unions. The effects of that tendency were modified by keeping up manufactures, without which the population of Connecticut would be reduced. He was convinced that there were more landholders in Connecticut now than there used to be. The land was increasing in value and the population of the State had grown since the census of 1880 by 118,000. The money in savings banks (a fair indication) was growing year by year.

Mr. Daniel explained that he had only alluded to the decay of farming interests in Connecticut to rebut the argument that high tariffs created home markets for the farmer.

Mr. Dawes refered to what he called the "logical inconsistency of the Senator from Virginia," who said that the high tariff on wool of 1867 had had the effect of depreciating the wool growth of the United States, both in quantity and value. But after that there was not a wool grower in the country that asked to have that policy abandoned or who did not know that its abandonment would be ruinous.

Mr. Daniel asked Mr. Dawes why hides were not protected in the bill as well as wool.

Mr. Dawes declined to be diverted from his position by such an interrogatory. [Laughter on the Democratic side.] He wanted an answer to his own question, how it was that the wool-grower wanted to maintain a tariff, the effect of which was to reduce the price of his wool, and that the wool manufacturer wanted to abandon a tariff, the effect of which was to reduce the cost of his raw material. Either they were both fools or the Senator from Virginia was led astray by assorted statistics.

Mr. Aldrich appealed to Senators on both sides to let the vote be taken without further debate, and said if better progress were not made some of the most important questions presented in the bill could not be discussed at all.

Mr. Vance, who had taken the floor to speak, yielded his right in deference to Mr. Aldrich's appeal.

The vote was taken and Mr. Carlisle's motion to strike out all the wool paragraphs was rejected—yeas, 17; nays, 27—a strict party vote, although Mr. Payne, if present, would have, Mr. Sherman said, voted in the negative.

No amendment was offered to paragraphs 370, 371 or 372. The Finance Committee reported an amendment to paragraph 373, relating to woolen and worsted yarns worth less than 30 cents a pound, by increasing the rate per pound from twice to two and one-half times the duty per pound on unwashed wool of the first class.

FELL FROM A BALLOON.

The Terrible Fate of a Young Man at Woodfield, O.—Casualties.

WOODFIELD, O., Aug. 30—Yesterday was the last day of the fair here and more than 10,000 people assembled to see the final races and a balloon ascension by Prof. Carter, the well known æronaut. The balloon was a simple hot air affair and was kept in its position over the furnace by ropes held by the bystanders. When it had been inflated and all was ready Carter gave the word to let go. The balloon shot upward and the thousands of spectators were horrified to see dangling at the end of a small line Milton Redin, one of the most prominent young men of the county and an officer of the fair association. Hundreds of persons shouted for him to drop, but Redin was either entangled or had lost his head, and he clutched frantically at the rope, attempting to climb up the slender line into the basket. A number of women in the dense crowd fainted and all the spectators grew sick with horror as the balloon sailed upward and began moving southward. Carter could be seen making desperate efforts to draw Redin up the rope on which he swung to and fro. For fully ten minutes their efforts continued and then, at a height of over one thousand feet, the balloon took a sudden lurch. Redin's hold was loosened and his body shot downward. It was found half a mile away. The clothing was torn off, all his bones broken and the body crushed out of all human semblance. Redin's brothers and sisters were in the throng and saw his terrible fall.

Adrift Without Food or Water.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Aug. 30.—Daniel Doran and Charles Potter, two of the crew of the schooner Lizzie Griffin, arrived home from St. Pierre, Miquelon, yesterday, having been forwarded from that port by the American Consul. They strayed in a dory from their vessel on the banks in a fog August 17, and were adrift without food and water for five days and four nights, during which they rowed 300 miles. They arrived in St. Pierre two weeks ago and were kindly cared for.

A Lineman's Horrible Death.

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 30.—Thos. Dew, aged 22, a lineman of the Brush Co., met a horrible death at 11 o'clock this morning at 35 East Third street. He was standing on an iron fire escape and was about to run a loop into the second story window. He caught a live electric light wire and instantly fell back dead on the fire escape. His right hand was nearly burned off. Assistance came promptly, but of course too late to do more than remove his dead body.

Jumped the Track.

SHAWNEE, O., Aug. 30.—A work train on the Columbus, Shawnee & Hocking Valley Railroad, jumped the track while running down grade half a mile east of here this morning. The engine turned over, killing Engineer Ed Hill and Fireman John Scanlan. The latter leaves a widow and child. Hill's home was at New Concord, O. A brakeman was severely injured.

TIES PUT ON THE TRACK.

OBSTRUCTIONS FOUND ON THE CENTRAL ROAD NEAR ALBANY.

The Strikers Declare That the Work Was Done by the Pinkertons—An Exaggerated Account Sent Out—Battle of the Brotherhoods on the Southern Pacific—How It May End—Labor News.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 30.—A dastardly attempt to wreck passenger trains was made at 2 o'clock this morning near Karners, about seven miles west of this city. By almost a miracle, the Chicago express, heavily laden with passengers and going at lightning speed, was brought to a standstill within twenty feet of a pile of heavy ties and railroad iron placed across the track. The tracks at this point are supposed to be guarded by Pinkerton men, but somehow the train wreckers passed the guard and laid the trap behind the shelter of one of the numerous freight trains stalled at that point. The attempt was made in a most systematic way for both the switchman and a Pinkerton guard were locked up in their houses. At about five minutes of the time the train is due the switchman started to leave the shanty but found himself a prisoner. While trying to get out he heard the thunder of the approaching train. Suspecting danger he cried for help and then burst the door down. As he got out the train came down at a terrific speed, and then for the first time the switchman saw the pile of ties on the track. He had no time to get his lantern but, with the Pinkerton men who had gathered, got on the track and yelled. The engineer saw them and putting on his air brakes reversed his lever and brought the train to a standstill. Very few of the 200 passengers were made aware of the danger.

An attempt was made and successfully, to wreck a train at Greenbush last night. A coupling pin was dropped in between the tracks of a switch and a freight train was derailed. Traffic was delayed for five hours.

At the Delaware & Hudson yard this morning detectives found a coupling pin placed on a track so as to threw a train off. The strikers claim that these acts are done by outside parties.

LATER—According to the Central road authorities the account of the attempted wreck at Karners has been exaggerated. They say that the few ties on the track were placed so as to scare the engineer and not to wreck the train. The engine knocked them off.

Master Workman Edward Rogers was asked for his version of the attempt to wreck the train. He said: "The strikers had nothing to do with it, for they could not have passed the Pinkerton guards. It was done by the Pinkerton men themselves, so as to keep the road in a state of worriment and make them believe that the Pinkerton guard is necessary. No strikers would be out at such an hour in the morning and you will notice that the ties were carefully placed so as not to wreck the train."

Battle of the Brotherhoods.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Aug. 30.—The contest between the Southern Pacific Railway and those of its engineers who are members of the brotherhood has assumed a new phase. It is now strictly a dispute between the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen. It came about in this way: The man Ritchie, who was appointed engineer of a passenger train and to whose appointment the Brotherhood of Engineers so strenuously objected, was a fireman and a member of the organization. The engineers demanded that he be removed and a member of their brotherhood be put in his place. This the road refused to do. The engineers have sent on a committee to San Francisco to confer with the Brotherhood of the coast and if their stand is indorsed and the road refuses to come to time they will strike and stop every train between New Orleans and San Francisco. Now the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen has taken a hand and propose to stand by Ritchie. It, too, will send on a committee to San Francisco to confer with Western members of the order. If their indorsement of Ritchie is sustained they will defy the engineers to tie up the road.

Brick-Handlers Go to Work.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—The brick-handlers returned to the work of unloading association brick at the usual price of 40 cents a thousand this morning. Three barges were unloaded at the foot of Thirtieth street, containing 1,500,000 bricks. It was said at the office of Peck, Martin & Co. that this was association brick. They are filling their contracts. They said that they delivered 1,000,000 bricks. Dealers seem to think that there will be no brick famine. There seems to be little danger now that the men will be forced out of work.

DEMOCRATS IN COUNCIL.

THE STATE COMMITTEE HOLDING AN IMPORTANT MEETING TO-DAY.

The Missouri Bar Associations Request To Have Both State Committees Support the Proposed Constitutional Amendment—The Thirteenth Ward Republican Row—Colored Republicans Dissatisfied—Political Matters.

The meeting of the State Democratic Committee to-day is attracting much attention from the State politicians. It was called to order shortly before 11 o'clock this morning in the committee rooms in the Temple building by Vice-Chairman Carroll of Unionville. Chairman Moffitt was detained elsewhere, and after waiting half an hour over the time set for the meeting, Mr. Carroll decided to get the organization down to business. All the members were on hand excepting Mayor Noonan, who represents the Eighth District, and Chairman Maffitt of the Ninth District. The Mayor was represented by Charles Higgins of the Eighteenth Ward. J. H. Carroll was on hand for the First District; J. H. Finks of Salisbury, Second District; J. B. Thomas, Albany, Third District; T. F. Ryan, St. Joseph, Fourth District; Senator A. M. Allen, Kansas City, Fifth District; J. D. Folson, Fayette, Sixth District; George T. Dunn, Troy, Seventh District; J. A. Brown, Eureka, Tenth District; B. P. Bailey, Fulton, Eleventh District; W. H. Phelps, Carthage, Twelfth District; T. J. Delaney, Springfield, Thirteenth District, and D. J. Allen, Piedmont, Fourteenth District.

"Farmer" Hickman, the Democratic nominee for Railroad Commissioner, was one of the first to put in an appearance at the committee rooms. When asked what he thought of the Republican ticket, he said he considered it an easy one to defeat. "I think," he said, "that I will have much difficulty running against Mr. Merrifield, who received the nomination for Railroad Commissioner at the hands of the Republican Convention. The fact that he is now and has been for years connected with a railroad company will I think greatly strengthen my chances among the farmers in all section of the State. Our nominees for the other offices are much stronger than the Republicans named for the same places."

DISCUSSED THE "OTHER" TICKET.

The members of the State Committee spent some time discussing the Republican ticket before the meeting was opened. The committeemen from the northern districts of the State spoke well of Judge Mullins, the Republican choice for supreme Judge, but at the same time said that Judge Gantt would defeat him by a big majority. As soon as Vice-Chairman Carroll called the meeting to order Secretary Frank Estes of the Missouri Bar Association appeared for the committee to make an argument in favor of the proposed amendment to the State Constitution increasing the number of Supreme Court judges from five to seven. The docket of the Supreme Court was clogged to such an extent, he argued, that it became absolutely necessary to increase the number of judges to handle the cases appealed to that tribunal. He asked that the State committee give its hearty support to the amendment.

The committee agreed with Mr. Estes and campaign orators will keep the amendment in mind during the canvass. It is the intention of the Bar Association to make the same request of the State Republican Committee.

When Mr. Estes concluded his address the committee went into executive session.

CAMPAIGN ARRANGEMENTS.

The committee remained in session until 1 o'clock and then took a recess to 2:30. The greater part of the session was given over to the hearing of reports from the various districts. These were generally of an encouraging character; names of a number of speakers were reported by the Executive Committee and assignments recommended for them. No time was fixed for the opening of the campaign, the committee letting that go over to the afternoon session. The campaign will, however, be opened in a very few days.

Treasurer Brown reported that the campaign contributions were coming in satisfactorily and that there was no danger of a scarcity of funds to defray the expenses of the canvass.

When the committee resumed the meeting later in the afternoon Sam Byrnes, the Congressional nominee in the Tenth District was called in and asked to make his own arrangements for speakers in that district. This was done because he is thoroughly familiar with the counties and city wards in the district, having canvassed them in nearly every campaign during the past fifteen years.

After Wade's Congressional Seat.

The Democrats in the Thirteenth Congressional District are preparing to make the political effort of their lives to defeat Farmer Wade at the approaching election. Reports from the counties comprising that district show that the delegates are being selected uninstructed and unpledged, giving them to pick from the field. The names most prominently mentioned are those of Col. John Phelps, ex-Department Commander of the Missouri G. A. R. Judge Fyan, who represented the district years ago in Congress, and Luke Kelly, a prominent Democrat and Grand Army man of Neosha. Democrats from the Thirteenth District, say that any one of the three mentioned can defeat Wade.

State Committeeman T. J. Delaney, of the Thirteenth District, who is in the city attending the committee meeting, said this morning that the Democracy of the district was never organized better or with more determination to win. He said the outlook was never more promising than it is at present.

Colored Republicans Dissatisfied.

The colored Republican leaders profess to be very indignant at the action of the State Republican Convention in refusing to indorse the Lodge Federal Election bill. This morning P. H. Murray, editor of the Advance, said it looked as though the Republican party wanted to use the negro for all it could get out of him and then drop him until he was needed again. "The convention gave us nothing that we asked for," he said, "though it pandered to every other element and interest of the party. We wanted Temple of St. Louis for Committeeman-at-Large and they gave us Pelham of Hannibal, who is a school teacher and cannot find the time to get out and obtain something for the colored people. Every time we make a demand for anything we are met with the cry, 'Didn't we fight for your Emancipation!' That's what we heard in Jefferson City from the opponents of our resolution. That cry is getting monotonous to the colored Republican voters and the party leaders ought to know it by this time."

Thirteenth Ward Republican Fight.

Notwithstanding the fact that there has been seven delegates and alternates elected to represent the Thirteenth Ward in the Tenth Congressional Convention, which convenes at De Soto on Tuesday, September 2, there will be a mass meeting of Republicans to-night at 7 o'clock, which will be held at Lafayette Hall, for the purpose to select delegates to represent the ward at the convention. From what can be learned the meeting to-night will ignore the meeting that was conducted at St. Boniface Hall last Thursday evening in which delegates were elected. The Young Men's Progressive Republican Club, whose aim in the political field is to secure the younger people a "show," have succeeded in obtaining a number of signatures to call a mass meeting for the above stated reasons. The meeting will no doubt be largely attended as there are quite a number of people bitterly opposed to the action taken by a few of the Republicans in calling Thursday evening's meeting.

Burks Is Sanguine.

Chief Grain Inspector Jasper N. Burks, who has been nominated by the Democrats of the Twenty-sixth Senatorial District for State Senator, came up last evening from that district where he has been compaigning since his nomination. The district comprises St. Francois, Ste. Genevieve, Perry, Bollinger, Cape Girardeau counties. The Democratic majority in the five counties is about one thousand, but owing to the feeling occasioned by the race between Burks and Noel for the nomination many Democrats fear it will fall off considerably. The Noel men left the convention disgusted with the defeat of their candidate, and some of them, it is claimed, made threats to bolt the ticket.

Mr. Burks said this morning that he had left everything in good order in the district. "Whatever feeling was engendered by the contest for the nomination," he said, "has disappeared and the Democrats will work unitedly for all the nominees."

Will Run for State Senator.

George Mann, the architent of the new City Hall, has been up in St. Joseph making a canvass for the Republican nomination for State Senator from that district, and has been assured by Maj. Shepard, Maj. Bittinger and other leaders that he will succeed. Mr. Mann, though temporarily residing in St. Louis, is quite a factor in Northwest Missouri politics and was a delegate from Buchanan County to the State Republican Convention. He will, if nominated, make the race against Editor Cochrane of the St. Joseph Gazette. The district is close, but Cochrane's friends say that he will have a comparatively easy time defeating Architect Mann if he does receive the nomination.

Political Notes.

The Twentieth Ward Hendricks Club will meet this evening at 2836 Market street.

Congressman W. H. Hatch of the First Missouri District is in the city on his way to his district. He has been renominated and seems confident that he will have no difficulty securing his return.

The Democrats of Cheltenham, Clifton Heights, Howard and Benton stations, of Precinct 147 of the Twenty-seventh Ward, will meet to-night at Odd Fellows' Hall, next to the Gratiot School, for the purpose of organizing the precinct.

POLITICAL EVENTS.

Pastor Lockwood's Troubles.

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 30.—The First Baptist Church of this city has become involved in a disagreement concerning their pastor, the Rev. C. M. Lockwood, who was recently nominated for Secretary of State by the Prohibition porty. At a called meeting of the Advisory Board August 13, during Mr. Lockwood's absence, resolutions were adopted requesting him to resign. Upon his return this week a church meeting was held at which a vote was taken against his resignation, and declaring the meeting of Advisory Board illegal and its proceedings void. There is a denial by those opposing Mr. Lockwood that their opposition is caused by his candidacy on the Prohibition ticket.

In the Twelfth Ohio District.

GALLIPOLIS, O., Aug. 30.—At the convention of the Twelfth Republican Congressional Convention, held yesterday, Gen. W. H. Enochs was nominated for Congress on the 447th ballot. Grovenor withdrew just before the last ballot in favor of Capt. Thompson. The ballot was taken and Grosvenor was nominated, but having withdrawn another ballot was ordered. Thompson was nominated this time, but before the vote was announced he begged his friends to preserve his honor as he had given his word to unite with Enochs. The votes were changed and Enochs was nominated.

Platform of Washington Democrats.

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 30.—The platform adopted by the Democratic State Convention yesterday indorses the National platform of the Democratic party, favors the reduction of taxes to absolute needs of the Government. The platform denounces the Federal election bill and the policy of Speaker Reed in the House of Representatives; demands free coinage of silver, and that all the Government officers be elected by the direct vote of the people; also approves the employment of Pinkerton men to maintain order.

The Ballot in Mississippi.

JACKSON, Miss., Aug. 30.—The Australian ballot system was practically adopted here yesterday by the Committee on Elective Franchise. The law requires a residence of two years in the State and one in the voting precinct, the prepayment of poll tax of $2, and qualified woman suffrage based on the possession by her or her husband of $200 of real estate. The Committee on Convict Labor reported a provision stopping the leasing or hiring of convict labor after January 1, 1895.

To Defeat Gov. Hoard.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 30.—Eleven men, calling themselves the "Anti-Bennett State Central Committee," after a session lasting from 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon until 10 o'clock last night, resolved to defeat Gov. Hoard because he maintains it is the right of every child to learn the English language. The committee includes a few prominent Lutherans and a number of Democratic politicians.

The Longest Pontoon Bridge in the World Has been completed at St. Charles, Mo., crossing the Missouri River. The Wabash Railroad will run an excursion from St. Louis to St. Charles to-morrow, August 31, leaving St. Louis Union Depot at 8:30 a. m., arriving at St. Charles at 9:27 a. m. Returning train will leave St. Charles at 5:15 p. m., arriving at St. Louis at 6:15 p. m. Fare 70 cents for the round trip.

CITY HALL FENCE DEFACERS.

The Police Still Looking for Them—Mr. Cottrill Vindicated From Any Suspicion.

The police have been looking for the rascals who, on Thursday night, defaced the fence around the new City Hall by squirting lampblack on the signs, but they have not yet found any trace of them nor have they any idea who they are. The reference in yesterday's paper to "a disappointed rival" was not intended as any reflection on the only billposter in St. Louis, Mr. Cottrill. Not only is there not the slightest ground for supposing that Mr. Cottrill had any connection, directly or indirectly with the affair, but his self interest, as well as his professional standing, are sufficient to vindicate him from any suspicion.

Important Change of Time on the "Alton" Road.

On and after Sunday, August 31, the "Chicago Vestibuled Limited" on the Chicago & Alton Railroad will leave St. Louis, Union Depot, at 8:20 p. m. instead of 7:55 p. m., and the "Kansas City Vestibuled Limited" will leave at 8:40 p. m. instead of 8:20 p. m., as heretofore. There is, however, no change in the fact that these are the only Pullman vestibuled trains running between St. Louis and Chicago and St. Louis and Kansas City.

HELD FOR ROBBERY.

Wash Jones and John White Arrested for Holding Up Thomas Dooley.

At 5:40 o'clock this morning Officer Thomas O'Brien of the Central District arrested Wash Jones. An hour later Officer Fuqua took in John White. Both men are now held for robbery in the first degree. Last night Thomas Dooley, a clerk in the store at Second and Locust streets, was held up by four negroes at Levee and Christy avenue and robbed of 45 cents. He resisted and was knocked down and beaten. When sent to the City Hospital he was found to have two severe scalp wounds on the top of his head. His face and body were badly bruised. He positively identifies both Jones and White as having participated in the robbery and will swear out warrants against them this afternoon. The prisoners are roustabouts by occupation and board at No. 8 North Levee.

A Retired Merchant Suicides.

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 30.—James H. McWilliams, aged 55, unmarried, a retired merchant living on Price Hill, shot himself this morning in the water closet where his brother, with whom he lived, found him dead. Ill health and grief at the loss of relatives are supposed to have led to the act.

A PECULIAR DISEASE.

SOUTHERN KANSAS CATTLE SUFFERING FROM AN UNKNOWN AILMENT.

Disagreement Among Veterinarians As to Its Nature—Strict Quarantine Regulations Adopted—How the Disease Is Supposed to Spread—The Indian Territory Cattle Believed to Be Responsible.

THE authorities of Kansas are feeling great anxiety on account of a disease that has recently made itself manifest in the southern part of the State, and which has proved to be terribly destructive," said A. R. Hughes of Abilene, Kan., who is stopping at the Lindell. "The disease has appeared within the last four weeks; at least it had not assumed any serious form before that time, although there were numerous reports that something was wrong. Such reports, however, are constantly arising, and little was thought of them until a very short time ago.

A PECULIAR AILMENT.

"During the first part of the month a number of cattle died in the northern section of the State, but as the ranges were overcrowded, owing to an influx of cattle from the Indian Territory that had been sent across the line in obedience to orders of the Interior Department, and as the drouth had greatly curtailed the supply of water, the losses were ascribed to these facts. Within the past ten days, however, the number of deaths has increased very greatly and hundreds of cattle that have had plenty of feed and water are effected, so that there is no longer any doubt that some distemper is among them. At Newton deaths to the extent of over 3,000 have been reported, and more than six thousand cattle are more or less affected, most of them seriously. Just what the disease is or how it is contracted are subjects on which there is much difference of opinion. Some veterinarians pronounce the disease to be a form of Texas fever; others consider it murrain of a peculiar kind, such as has not been known on our Western ranges, dry murrain, I believe, they call it. It is more immediately fatal than ordinary Texas fever, but from all that I can learn bears a very close resemblance to that disease, although it spreads more rapidly.

A PUZZLING QUESTION.

"How it is communicated is a mooted point. It is reasonably certain that herds can be infected that have had no communication with cattle from outside of the State, as the disease has appeared in pastures that are entirely under fence, and into which no cattle have been introduced for a year past. This fact very seriously complicates the situation, and has led to an exceedingly strict quarantine being enforced against cattle from a number of southern counties, irrespective of whether they have been exposed to contagion or not. Many are inclined to the belief that the germs of the disease are carried by the streams, and that isolation does no good. It is a well-known fact that cattle develop Texas fever, and especially big-jaw, if allowed to graze over ranges previously occupied by stock afflicted by these diseases, but there have heretofore been no well authenticated cases of distempers being spread by running water. The trouble is believed to have originated with the Indian Territory cattle.

QUARANTINE REGULATIONS.

"There are, as far as we can learn, no symptoms of disease in the Cherokee strip, but that proves nothing, as it is a well-known fact that cattle on a drive will develop ailments to which they would never have been subjected if they had stayed on their ranges. The fatigue and lack of food and water to which the cattle were subjected on the drive to the Kansas line were admirably calculated to bring about disease, and those who have studied most closely the distemper trace it to the imported stock. A severe quarantine will be enacted against Indian Territory stock, and the Kansas men will permit none of their cattle that are suspicious to leave the State, as by so doing they would injure the reputation of all Kansas stock. The feeling, we may state, is strongly in favor of allowing Indian Territory men to delay their departure from the Cherokee strip until winter."

FOR ROBBING DELEGATE LEHMAN.

Thomas Walsh Arrested After Enjoying Liberty for Some Time.

Delegate Julius Lehman swore out a warrant at the Four Courts this morning charging Thomas Walsh with robbery in the first degree. Walsh was arrested yesterday evening by Detectives Lawler and Desmond, who picked him up on the streets. On the night of April 5 Mr. Lehman was on his way home. At the corner of Grand avenue and North Market he was held up by two highwaymen, one of whom pointed a pistol at his head while the other took from him a gold watch of the value of $300. The two escaped at the time. The next morning, however, Detective McGrath arrested Henry Schultz on suspicion and made such a strong circumstantial case against him that the prisoner was only too glad to turn up the stolen watch and take a compromise sentence of six months in the Work-house for the job. His evidence implicated Walsh in the robbery. Walsh could not be found, having left the city. A few days ago he returned, however, only to be picked up last night.

Charged Above the Legal Rate.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—When the Westchester race track was opened a year ago the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Co. had a monopoly of the passenger traffic and charged 50 cents for round trip tickets, an excess of 14 cents over the legal rate. Several persons brought suit against the company, and in each case received $50 and costs. This fact stimulated a lawyer named Henry Wehle to look up persons who could make an affidavit to the fact that they had paid 50 cents each for tickets. He has sought for persons who had been thus overcharged at all the race tracks in this vicinity and in the hotels, cafes, horse cars and elevated railroads. He has been very successful and says that he has filed 500 complaints against the company.

Ranges Swept by Fire.

DICKINSON, N. D., Aug. 30.—A widespread and destructive prairie fire ravaged hundreds of thousands of acres along the Little Missouri River two or three days ago about forty miles from the main line of the Northern Pacific Railroad. The great range of the H. T. Cattle Co. was swept clear. The fire was put out by means of horses, which were killed for the purpose of using them as drags to extinguish the flames. The horses were split up the back and the carcasses dragged over the country by long ropes. Twelve hundred head of horses were stampeded to the four winds.

Confessed the Murder.

LINCOLN, Ill., Aug. 30.—Frederick Ketcham, a farm hand, was arrested here yesterday, charged with the murder of James Fagan near Argentine, Kan., July 4, 1889. The attack was made with a long knife, which cut open the victim's abdomen. While lying on the ground Ketcham cut Fagan's throat to make sure of his work. The murderer has confessed.

A Cherokee Confidenced.

John Madden, a Cherokee Indian from the Territory, came to this city a few days ago in charge of a car of cattle. After disposing of them he started out and soon had swallowed enough of the white man's fiery liquor to give him what the white man calls a big-sized "jag." While in this condition he last night met a very pleasant stranger who kindly volunteered to show him the path through the wilderness of saloons to where the mighty iron horse is stabled. Madden acceded and the stranger took him in charge and left him safely at the Union Depot in a drunken stupor and minus a watch and chain. Here Sergt. Mundinger found him and brought him to the Central Station, where he rested for the night and slept off the effects of the fire water. No clue to the friendly guide.

COURT NEWS.

Three Applications for Divorce—Peter Eckhardt's Will.

Three divorce suits were filed by three wives this morning, two of whom were deserted and the other compelled to leave her husband.

Mrs. Maggie Pemberton, who was married to Charles Pemberton in January, 1885, says her husband was an habitual drunkard, failed to support her and finally deserted her in July, 1888. She asks to be granted the custody of her child.

Mrs. Ida Fairfax says Oliver Fairfax married her January 9, 1883, and on July 1, 1887, left her. She wants her maiden name of Brown restored.

Mrs. Lavina Hamilton sues Wm. O. Hamilton on the grounds of adultery. She says he became untrue to her in Minneapolis during August, 1889, two years after marriage. She asks to have her first husband's name, Thompson, restored to her and also be granted the custody of her child by her first marriage.

In the will of Peter Eckhardt, filed to-day, his father, sister and brothers are given equal shares in his estate. The will closes as follows: "I am here in America by myself, my father, sister and brothers all live in the village or country town of Dorlar, which is nine German miles from Coblentz in Germany, or near that town."

Creve Cœur Lake.

There will be free music for dancing, jubilee singers, boating, fishing, refreshments and other attractions at Creve Cœur Lake Sunday, August 31. Six trains via Missouri Pacific Railway. Last ones returning leave the lake at 7:10 and 9:30 p. m. Only 50 cents for the round trip.

ALIVE WITH A BROKEN NECK.

A Strange Case That Has Puzzled the Surgeons.

In the corridor of the Laclede Hotel a man was seen this morning who had passed through an experience which would have proved fatal to the great majority of mankind. On the 11th of July, 1889, F. J. Woodward of Denison, Tex., a conductor on the Missouri, Kansas & Texas, fell from the top of a freight car. He was picked up in an unconscious condition, and on examination it was found that the vertebræ of his neck had been dislocated. He was conveyed to the railroad hospital at San Antonio, where it was thought that he would die, but contrary to the universal opinion of doctors, he survived, and is now able to move about with comparative freedom. While the vertebræ were distorted, the continuity of the spinal cord was not seriously interfered with, and after Woodward had been bedridden for almost a year the physician contrived a support for his head which has enabled him to move with almost as much case as if nothing had happened. Without the support his head is liable to drop either forward or backward, but as long as it is kept in an upright position he experiences comparatively little inconvenience. Around his chin two strong elastic bandages are passed, which are fastened to a wire support resting on his shoulders. Above his head a semicircular wire is passed which holds in place a disc that aids to keep the neck in place. Mr. Woodward states that his general health is good, but that he is of course prevented by his injury from engaging in any active business. The object of his visit is to ascertain whether or not an improved support can be devised.

THE BENTON-BELLEFONTAINE ROAD.

The Overhead Electric System Will Probably Be Adopted for the Line.

It is by no means unlikely that no attempt to place the gas motor on the Benton-Bellefontaine Street Railroad will be made. The owner of that line, James Campbell, in reply to a question said: "I have not fully decided even to give the gas motor a trial. It is an experiment, and I do not feel inclined to experiment very extensively. At any rate I shall begin by putting the track in order for the electric overhead system. I have just closed the contract for the iron, and it will arrive in a few days. When the track is in proper condition I may give the gas motor a trial, but I am now preparing for an overhead electric line, and probably that will be what I shall determine upon."

WELL ARMED.

A Kentuckian Arrested for Having Concealed Ammunition.

Officers Warren and McGrath arrested a young man giving his name as Toliver Hughes at the Union Depot this morning, and locked him up at the Four Courts on the charge of carrying concealed weapons. Around his waist he had a broad belt full of cartridges. A 44-caliber Colt's revolver was strapped at his side. He said his home was in Beaver County, Ky., and produced a ticket for Ft. Worth, Tex., to which point he was bound. Hughes insisted that he was from the mountains and had to wear the gun at home as a matter of protection. He had $112 in his pocket and seemed well fixed. He will be sent into the Police Court Monday morning.

A. MANVEL IN THE CITY.

The President of the Atchison Confers With 'Frisco Officials.

Shortly before noon A. Manvel, President of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe, and of the 'Frisco, arrived in the city and registered at the Southern. Mr. Manvel at once proceeded to the offices of the 'Frisco and held a conference with General Manager H. L. Morrill and other officials of that road. He stated that his visit had no particular significance, being for the purpose of looking over the books, and making arrangements for the general improvement of the line, as well as of obtaining the views of the Frisco officials on the policy to be pursued by the road at the meeting to reorganize the Southern Interstate Traffic Association, which is to meet in this city on Tuesday next. Mr. Manvel will probably leave for Chicago to-morrow.

THE CONDUCTORS' BROTHERHOOD.

A Meeting to Be Held in This City To-Morrow.

A meeting of the Brotherhood of Railway Conductors employed on the lines west of the Mississippi will be held in this city to-morrow. E. E. Clark of Cedar Rapids, Io., the Grand Master of the order, arrived in the city morning, and registered at the Laclede, and several members are already on hand. Mr. Clark states that the meeting will be held only for the purpose of transacting routine business, and that three are no serious complaints against any railroad to be considered.

The Burchell Jury.

WOODSTOCK, Ontario, Aug. 30.—A panel of jurors for the fall assizes, at which Burchell, the murderer of Benwell, will be tried, was balloted for to-day. Owing to the importance of the trial, the petit jury panel was seventy-two. Crown Attorney Ball cautioned all the jurors against expressing any opinion whatever in reference to the Burchell case to any one, as such expression of opinion might be used at the trial to render him incompetent to serve.

A WARRANT FOR MRS. DOSSEN.

The Proprietress of the Lying-In Institute Arrested on a Grave Charge.

The morning a warrant was issued by Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Dierkes charging Mrs. Margaret Dossen with criminal malpractice. The warrant was placed in the hands of a deputy sheriff, who will serve it on the defendant some time to-day. As a bond in the sum of $800 has already been taken for her appearance in the Court of Criminal Correction, it is probable that no arrest will be made.

Mrs. Dossen has been for years the proprietor of a lying-in institute at 1332 Chouteau avenue. Her place has always been looked upon with something more than suspicion by the police and "surface" investigations have several times been made. Nothing could ever be proven, however, and the "institute" has flourished. On the strength of a sworn statement made by a former patient at the place Detectives Lawler and Desmond went to the house at a late hour yesterday afternoon and arrested Mrs. Dossen. The house was searched from top to bottom and both instruments and drugs used only for illegal practices were found. These articles were confiscated to be used in court as evidence, and Mrs. Dossen was placed in a cell in the Four Courts holdover. Three hours later she secured a bond of $800 and was released to appear in the Court of Criminal Correction whenever wanted to answer to any charge which might be preferred against her by the authorities.

Mrs. Dossen is charged with having administered to one Lillie Mayhew drugs and medicines by the use of which she procured a premature birth. A sworn statement by a woman named Emma Kaylor, who was in Mrs. Dossen's house at the time, is to the effect that Lillie Mayhew gave birth to a 4-months' child at the institute on last Saturday. Mrs. Dossen denies the statement in full. She says she first met Lillie Mayhew about two years ago when she was brought to the institute by Mrs. Brown, 213 South Sixteenth street. The girl's scandalous actions caused her to ask her to leave the place. She says she frequently saw the girl at her sister's request, and attended her in confinement. This was in a house at 1516 Chestnut street. The girl was only at her house once since two years ago, and that was about a week past. She asked if she could stay with her and said she was not well. Mrs. Doosen says she sent for Dr. Benkendorf, 1510 Gratiot street, who pronounced her illness pneumonia. The defendant claims that Lillie Mayhew is an adventuress and insisted that blackmail is her object.

Dr. Benkendorf corroborated Mrs. Dossen's statement to the effect that he had not attended the girl in premature birth. He said, however, that Mrs. Dossen told him when he came that the patient had a premature birth some time before. Dr. Warren G. Priest examined Lillie Mayhew at the Dispensary and found evidences of a premature birth, but could not say whether or not it was from the effects of a criminal operation. The girl is now in the house of a friend and will tell the same story told by Emma Kaylor when the proper time comes. She is from New Orleans and is said to belong to a good family in that city.

Secretary Windom's Offer Has a Marked Effect on the Money Market.

By Private Wire to Gaylord, Blessing & Co.

NEW YORK, 9 a. m.—The largest professional operators among the members generally said yesterday, after the close, that they did not see anything of importance in the way of a speculative movement right away, because of the two holidays; consequently the impression obtained that the market was liable to be a waiting market for the present, but probably considerably improved and higher next week. The strength of Hocking Valley stock astounds the street, but there is no reason for surprise about it, inasmuch as the wonderful earnings ought to put it to 40. Wheeling stocks to-day are as safe to buy and hold for a September rise as anything in the Stock Exchange. The earnings are simply grand and constantly increasing.

9:30 a. m.—From Financial Chronicle: Banks gained from the Sub-Treasury $3,400,000, lost to the interior $2,251,000; net gain, $1,149,000. The money market this week affords a remarkable illustration of the proportion of fear and sentiment which often help to make up a state of supreme stringency. A week ago Thursday and Friday the situation was in some respects almost beyond parallel; this week the change has been complete; of course, every one knows that the difference between Thursday of one week and Thursday next was the result of the offer of Secretary Windom to pay off $20,000,000 4½ per cent bonds at par, but it was the offer and not the payment that worked the change; to Wednesday only $9,625,000 had been accepted, a considerable portion of which was not bonds held and therefore disbursed for New York, and the other portion was of bonds already held by the Treasurer as security for bank deposits.

Ninety-eight roads for the second week of August gained in gross earnings $640,639, equal to 9.41; sixty-six roads for the third week gained in gross $297,555, equal to 5.30 per cent.

WASHINGTON, 11 a. m.—Bond purchases yesterday, $3,061,450; total under circular of August 21, $18,299,750.

New York, 11:10 a. m.—The following is the bank statement for this week:

Reserves, increase	$1,976,305
Loans, decrease	5,125,900
Specie, increase	974,500
Legals, decrease	99,100
Deposits, decrease	4,403,600
Circulation, decrease	400

AN INOPERATIVE STATUTE.

A Clerical Error Renders Invalid the Missouri Law in Relation to Fees.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Aug. 30.—Attorney-General Wood has given an opinion in which he declares that a clerical error has invalidated the chapter on fees passed by the last Legislature. The chapter originated in the Senate, passed and went to the House. There twenty-six amendments were added and the bill returned to the Senate for concurrence. The Senate concurred in all but amendments Nos. 1 and 26, and a conference committee was appointed. The Senate section of the committee reported and advised that the Senate recede from its non-concurrence in those two amendments, and the report was adopted. Because of an error in the indorsement the enrolling clerk omitted amendment No. 1 and the chapter was printed with that amendment omitted. Nelson Church of Harrison County, who was the author of No. 1, called the attention of the Secretary of State to its omission and Secretary Lesseuer referred the matter to the Attorney-General, who says that on account of the omission the chapter is invalid and fees will be regulated hereafter by the chapter of 1879.

FOR ACTING AS A PROCURESS.

Lu Roberts Arrested on a Charge of Enticing Young Girls Into a Life of Shame.

A serious charge was last night preferred against Lu Roberts, the keeper of a house at 117 South Sixth street, and he and two inmates of the house, Minnie Harris and Annie Kathman, are now under arrest awaiting investigation. Roberts is charged with acting as procurer and with enticing girls to lead a life of shame. The two girls now under arrest were both brought from Indianapolis, Ind. They claim to be 18 years of age, but do not appear to be over 16. It appears that a woman called Lulu Faring, formerly a loose character of this city, acted as agent for Roberts in Indianapolis. The authorities of Indianapolis say that the procuring business has been going on for some time and implicate Roberts as being concerned in it to a large extent.

Notice!! To Whom It May Concern.

The rapid manner in which lots are being sold at Oak Hill Place has prompted us to establish an office on the ground for the convenience of purchasers. The terms upon which the lots are sold, being only $50 cash and $10 per month, give every one an opportunity to secure a home site or a real estate investment where property is bound to rapidly increase in value. Oak Hill Place is located on the south side of Tower Grove Park, midway between Grand Avenue and King's Highway: the Pine Street Electric Cars go direct to the property every three minutes. The prices placed on the property range from $10 to $16 per foot, and as it is high, healthy, well drained, and contiguous to city water and electric lights, it is unquestionably the cheapest and best property in the city for the money.

Our branch office is located on the northwest corner of Arsenal street and Morgan Ford road (Arsenal street is the southern boundary line of Tower Grove Park and the street on which the Pine street electric cars run), where our representative can be found every day until September 1, from 10 a. m. to 6:30 o'clock p. m.

EAST ST. LOUIS AND BELLEVILLE.

The Viaduct Opening This Afternoon—General News.

The great iron viaduct that spans Cahokia Creek and the railway track at Broadway is the center of attraction in East St. Louis today. The committee appointed to decorate it for the memorable occasion of its formal opening have done their work well and as it stands out in bold relief, so high and so situated that an unobstructed view of it may be had from almost any point within a quarter of a mile or more, it presents a handsome appearance, bedecked as it is with hundreds of yards of colored bunting and any number of flags of all sizes. Not alone is the viaduct brightly decorated, but so many flags and emblems are to be seen fluttering from the buildings in the vicinity that the city is given the appearance of being in complete holiday attire. The streets of East St. Louis are livelier than they have been for many a day. The number of strangers to be seen about the city shows that the fame of East St. Louis and her stupendous undertakings in the way of public improvements is nothing if not extensive.

The ceremonies of the day began at 2 o'clock p. m. At that hour the procession of East St. Louis societies was formed at the City Hall, and a little later was ready to move to Broadway and across the viaduct to the eastern approach of the Eads bridge. At the bridge approach the coming of Mayor Noonan was awaited with the procession in open ranks. Upon his arrival and as he passed through the ranks to the head of the procession he was roundly cheered. When he had taken his position and the ranks were closed the procession moved to the base ball park on Broadway, where the ceremonies will continue throughout the afternoon.

Samuel Newlove and George Haas were arrested last night for robbing a 16-year-old boy named Clyde Winn near the Relay Depot. The three persons were together at the Relay about 9 o'clock, and according to Winn's statement walked down the tracks with the intention of boarding a train to beat their way across the bridge. At a secluded place some distance from the depot Winn was held up by his companion, and as he claims robbed of a silver watch and a small amount of change. He ran back to the depot and reported the robbery to Detective Kinney and Officer Ryan, who chased the robbers up the tracks past the stock yards and captured them near Venice. The watch was found in their possession. To-day they had a hearing before Justice Bunyan and were held for the Grand-jury under bonds of $500 each. They were unable to give bail and were taken to the Belleville Jail by Detective Kinney.

The Death of a Miser.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Aug. 30.—The death of Geo. Gilbert, which occurred Thursday, reveals some strange doings of the man, who was a confirmed miser. During the last fifty years he had lived alone, devoting his time to saving money which he deposited in banks. It was his boast that his living the year around did not cost him to exceed 3 cents per day. In 1855 he sold a neighbor a load of hay for $27. Gilbert punctually collected the interest each year, and last year he accepted the principal, it having earned him over $100. Gilbert leaves an estate valued at $125,000 to $150,000 and has no relatives residing in this section.

Alleged Destitution in Oklahoma.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Aug. 30.—Capt. Burbank, who was detailed by the War Department to examine into the alleged destitution existing in this county, has sent in his report. After making a thorough investigation he found a few cases of actual destitution and a great many who would be greatly benefited by being furnished work at a reasonable compensation. He recommends that actual cases of destitution be relieved by the issuance of food and clothing, and that the balance of the money be spent in building roads and bridges. He especially urges that some method be adopted whereby seed wheat can be furnished.

A MURDERER LYNCHED.

The People of Higginsville, Mo., Make Short Work of a Desperado.

HIGGINSVILLE, Mo., Aug. 30.—Two funerals will take place at the little town of Mayview, five miles west of here. One of them will be that of E. F. Parker, ex-postmaster, who was murdered, and the other of Will Walters, murderer, who was lynched. There are only 150 people in the town and every one of them knew Parker personally. He kept a general store and was very highly thought of. In the morning friends went to his store, and finding it closed rapped on the doors and shutters for admittance, but could not get in. An entrance was finally forced, and Parker was found behind his counter horribly chopped and mangled. A negro testified that he had seen another negro, Will Walters, in the place late at night making a purchase. A party of citizens immediately went to the farm of H. C. Schrier where Walters was employed and found him cutting corn with a bloody corn knife. The clothes he had worn during the night were found saturated with blood. A rope was put around his neck and he was marched to the nearest tree. There he confessed and said he had gambled all his money away and had murdered Parker to rob him. When his story was finished he was hauled up four or five feet and the rope tied to the tree. All of the lynchers then went about their business and left the murderer hanging.

SWEPT BY THE SURF.

The Ocean Promenade Badly Damaged at Asbury Park Last Night.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Aug. 30.—The high surf of last night and this morning sweeping along the beach here has carried away all of the ocean promenade between the Asbury pavilion and Third avenue. The waves tore away hundreds of feet of the beautiful board walk, and nothing is left but the bluff, on the edge of which pedestrians are now compelled to walk. All of the bath-houses are toppling over or carried off in the breakers. As early as 6 o'clock this morning thousands of persons congregated to watch the surf complete what last night's high tide left partly undone. The sight was a grand one, the breakers rising twenty feet and dashing over the fishing pier, completely wrecking the remainder of the walk from Third avenue south to Asbury avenue, which is the finest part of the promenade. The sea not only uprooted spiles, tore planking to pieces and carried off bath-houses, but ate into the lawn back of the walk to the depth of twenty-five feet at several points. The electric light poles also went down. Although lines have been drawn from Third avenue to Asbury Park, the police experience difficulty in keeping the people back from the dangerous portions of the lawn walk which will have to be rebuilt. The damage is estimated at $25,000. Hundreds of men are employed endeavoring to save the remainder of the bathing pavilion from foundering.

About 4:30 yesterday afternoon switch engine No. 208 (a pony) jumped the track near the marine docks, falling down a little embankment on its side. The engineer and the fireman jumped in safety. Samuel Saucer, a brakeman, was caught between the engine and a flat car, but, strange to say, was not hurt, although his hat was torn to pieces. Quite a number of freight cars was wrecked and demolished by the accident, involving a loss of $1,000. The track was badly torn up for nearly a block, delaying traffic for nearly three hours.

A NOTABLE INCREASE.

THE FALL TRADE SHOWS A REMARKABLE EXTENSION OF ST. LOUIS TERRITORY.

How St. Louis Merchants Have Annexed Eastern Texas—Protests From Galveston—The Increase in the Northwestern Business—Extraordinary Development of the Trade With the Southeast—An Excellent Outlook.

THE wholesale dealers of St. Louis are jubilant over the prospects of the fall trade, which has set in from two to five weeks earlier than usual and promises to assume proportions larger than the most enthusiastic had anticipated. A glance at the registers of the hotels will show that not only is the number of country buyers who are now in the city greater than it has ever been before at this season, but also that they come from localities that have heretofore drawn their supplies from other quarters.

EXTENDING ST. LOUIS TRADE.

A manager of a large wholesale dry goods house in reference to this matter said: "I have been obliged not only to watch my own business closely, but also to keep an eye on what was being done in other lines, and have thus obtained no little insight into the situation. No one who is at all well informed on the subject can fail to see that St. Louis has been reaching out in all directions, and extending its field of operations. We have long had the preponderance in Northern Texas, but this year we have added Southern Texas to our tributary territory, most seriously cutting in on the trade of Galveston. So great have been our advances in this respect that the Galveston merchants have made a formal appeal to the railroads asking that a change of rates be made so that they can compete with St. Louis in Southern Texas. They do not claim that the rates are more favorable to this city than when Galveston practically controlled the trade of that section, but they say that owing to the advances made by St. Louis they cannot sell goods in their own territory unless they receive assistance from the railroads.

GREAT INCREASE IN SALES.

"This admission is proof positive of the manner in which this city has manifested its enterprise. The reasons given are that the merchants of this city are willing to do business on a much smaller margin of profit than during previous years, and that, therefore, they are occupying territory that was formerly supplied from other points. This year we have sold goods to points in Southern Texas that have not previously been touched by us. The extension of our trade in the Southwest is only what might have been expected, but in two other directions our merchants have made advances that were hardly to be anticipated. The purchases from Northern Kansas, which formerly was largely supplied from Chicago and Kansas City, are larger this year by from 75 to 125 per cent than they ever were before. In Iowa and Southern Nebraska the gain is not so great, but is still very considerable. This gain is made at the expense of Chicago and is a most important one, but not nearly so significant as the extension of St. Louis trade that is taking place in the Southern States east of the Mississippi.

NEW CUSTOMERS GAINED.

"This spring a great many merchants from Tennessee, Kentucky, Southern Indiana and Southern Ohio came to this city to buy goods who had previously been in the habit of obtaining their supplies from Cincinnati, Louisville and Nashville. The influx from this quarter for the fall trade includes not only almost all of those who come here in the spring, but hundreds of others. The reason that they give for their change in the base of supplies is that the line of goods carried in this city is larger than in the markets to which they formerly resorted, and that their customers demand a greater variety and better qualities than have formerly been called for. Nothing is more marked in the territory tributary to St. Louis than the great increase in prosperity and the enlargement of the expenditures of those who buy from this market. Scarcely a country merchant has come here this fall who has not increased his orders by fully 50 per cent, and never has it been so easy to make collections. Long credits are seldom asked, and a great part of the business is done on a cash or thirty-day basis. This enables merchants to sell on closer margins and thus to extend their trade by lowering prices. Altogether the outlook is better than it ever was before."

Notice!! To Whom It May Concern.

The rapid manner in which lots are being sold at Oak Hill Place has prompted us to establish an office on the grounds for the convenience of purchasers. The terms upon which the lots are sold, being only $50 cash and $10 per month, give every one an opportunity to secure a home site, or a real estate investment, where property is bound to rapidly increase in value. Oak Hill Place is located on the south side of Tower Grove Park, midway between Grand avenue and King's highway; the Pine Street Electric Cars go direct to the property every three minutes. The prices placed on the property range from $10 to $16 per foot, and as it is high, healthy, well drained and contiguous to city water and electric lights, it is unquestionably the cheapest and best property in the city for the money.

Our branch office is located on the northwest corner of Arsenal Street and Morgan Ford Road (Arsenal Street is the southern boundary line of Tower Grove Park and the street on which the Pine Street Electric Cars run, where our representative can be found every day until September 1, from 10 a. m. to 6:30 p. m.

There is no other place in the city where conditions exist for so large a profit as in property on Delmar avenue, between Union avenue and Wabash Railroad. From six to fifteen blocks on both sides of the street are restricted from business, leaving this the only business property for a territory of at least ONE MILE SQUARE. In this district there are about 1,500 residence lots and only 150 business lots, 20 per cent of which are already permanently occupied in other ways. Assuming that there will be at least TWENTY different trades represented, each store on this section of Delmar avenue will have the control of customers to the number of at least 200 householders. What will this be worth to property on this street? The Washington avenue electric line is now running, and within a year or so this district will be built up. This avenue, 100 feet wide, makes a "BUSINESS BOULEVARD," which, when completed, will be the main business artery of the western portion of the city. Believing that investors have not fully understood the situation their attention is called to these facts.

To parties desiring to purchase some of the above lots outright, can give a 6 Per Cent Guarantee.

JIM BUTLER's candidacy for Congress is heartily indorsed by the Republicans of the Ninth District.

THE fundamental elements of government, according to Republican representatives, are force and fist.

SECRETARY BLAINE believes that we should adopt free trade in this country if we can get a good price for our old protection policy.

THERE is some ground for a suspicion that peace has been established in Central America; at least, the latest report affirms positively that such is the case.

IT is evident from BLAINE's Waterville speech that he is ahead of his party, but it will take the convention of 1892 to decide how far ahead of his party he is now.

JUST at a time when the census reports an increase of 30 per cent in the size of St. Louis it would be very unfortunate to have a decrease in the size of her Congressmen.

THE strongest point in the platform of the State Republican Convention was furnished by the Democratic administration. The manner in which the administration has dealt with the Noland defalcation is a deep stain on the Democratic party.

CHAIRMAN MAFFITT of the Democratic State Central Committee is reported from Washington as requesting assistance from the National Congressional Committee for several of the Missouri districts, but we do not hear of his making any effort to save his own district from a repetition of the '88 landslide.

A NEW railroad tunnel under St. Clair River has been opened to facilitate trade between the United States and Canada, and Mr. MCKINLEY has not introduced a bill to have it closed. Perhaps he has rightly concluded that his tariff bill will prove a more effective barrier than stone walls or iron bars.

THE great contrast between the growth of Chicago in population and the lack of growth in rural Illinois is partly due to Chicago's superior assiduity and skill in fixing up census enumerations, and largely due to the recent annexation of extensive sections of rural Illinois to the city. If the country people of Illinois cannot be forced to seek refuge in Chicago from unfair assessment they can be annexed.

BOSS QUAY is said to harbor an ambition to be the next Republican nominee for the Presidency. Why not? He is the truest representative of organized greed in the party, and can command all of its resources for a campaign. He embodies the methods and aspirations of the clique of Republican bosses who are ruling the party. He led the party to victory in the last campaign, and has dictated much of its policy and many of the administration's appointments. He has taken the leadership in the Senate. His nomination would at least have the merit of bold and frank avowal of means and ends. It would be without that despicable hypocricy which seeks to conceal villainous methods and purposes under a thin veneer of pretentious piety.

CHICAGO'S FAILURE.

Again Chicago turns to Lake Michigan as her only hope and talks of building her World's Fair castles in the water, in spite of expert testimony that the thing is impracticable, and in spite of pending litigation as to riparian rights. Congress and the United States Government have done for her all she asked, a special session of the Legislature of Illinois has given her all she demanded in the way of financial aid and enabling acts, and yet she is no further advanced in plans and preparations for the fair than she was when Congress gave it to her nearly six months ago.

She has an army of directors and commissioners, organized with presidents and secretaries and equipped with an alleged subscription fund of $5,000,000 to begin with, but there is no beginning, and no prospect of one, because there is no eligible or even available site for a cornerstone. The wonderful energy, resources and pluck which rebuilt Chicago so splendidly after the great fire, and which Congress counted on to guarantee the completion of grand preparations for the fair in 1892, seem to be utterly wanting, to the great disappointment of the country. One-fourth of the scant time allotted for the gigantic preparations necessary has been allowed to slip away unimproved, and without any action looking to the improvement of the remainder. The site squabble alone progresses, and always in the direction of quicksands and interminable delays.

Such protracted indecision and inaction was not expected from any of the competing cities. It begins to look as if Chicago had obtained the location only to play the part of the dog in the manger. It is time the farce were ended, and when the directors meet again next Tuesday the country has a right to expect from them some decision, some action, which can be accepted as a guarantee of good faith. If Chicago is not going on with the work she ought to say so and let some other city undertake it.

ONE HUNDRED towns and cities of Wisconsin which contained 29 per cent of the population of that State in 1880, now contain 39 per cent of it. Census returns so far indicate that the larger increase of population in the towns than in the country, which called forth so much comment ten years ago, will be more marked now than then. The explanation of the fact is that the means of living in cities and the attractions of town life have improved, while farming has been under a cloud of depression and could offer no counteracting inducements. The proper balance of population between town and country is not what it was in the days of hand tillage and ox-team transportation, and we may not have reached it yet. In the meantime the crop reports show that there is no danger of a famine from the depopulation of the fields and the over-crowding of the towns.

THE negroes drew the color line against themselves when they undertook to cast the negro vote solid for one party and to ostracise all of their race who voted for the other party. The native American line would appear instantly in politics if all naturalized citizens could be herded under one party banner, as the negroes have been. And the result would be that neither party would then have to nominate a naturalized citizen for any office. The color line is now drawn as strictly against the negro in Republican communities and inside of the Republican organization as it is in the politics of the South. The Republicans do not elect negroes to any desirable offices where they have the power, because they do not have to. A division of the negro vote is as conspicuously needed to break the color line in the Republican party and in the North as in Georgia or Mississippi.

BLAINE's Waterville speech opens with the following words:

I wish to declare the opinion that the United States has reached a point where one of its highest duties is to enlarge the area of its foreign trade.

Two years ago any Republican stump speaker who might have been tempted to open his speech with so heretical and treasonable an utterance would have stampeded his audience.

Plumb's Point on Tin.

From the Providence Journal.

Senator Plumb of Kansas is letting a large amount of daylight into the influences which governed the framers of the McKinley bill when he begs the manufacturers not to use their power in Congress to increase the tax 120 per cent on the tin pails of workingmen, but to be content with a bounty of a cent a pound from the Treasury of the United States. There never has been quite so frank a confession in the history of American politics, and it will not be forgotten when the people come to pass their verdict upon the McKinley bill and the party responsible for it.

No Flies on Little Johnnie.

ASBURY PARK'S SCANDAL

THE EPISODE IN WHICH MRS. DANGERFIELD FIGURED SO UNPLEASANTLY.

The Story of Young Blunt's Brutal Assault at the Cottage—He Refuses to Talk When Interviewed at Brighton Beach—Something of the History of the Parties Involved—The Dangerfield Family.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Mrs. Effie N. Dangerfield is the wife of Reverdy Dangerfield of Alexandria, Va., a member of one of the proudest and most ancient families of that commonwealth, and a grandson (on his mother's side) of Reverdy Johnson, twice Senator of the United States from Maryland, Attorney-General under President Taylor and Minister of the United States to Great Britain. Mrs. Dangerfield's family has been famous in both the army and navy of its country. She is a woman of striking beauty and has long been a conspicuous figure in the society of the national capital. Mrs. Dangerfield is a tall and rather large, though not portly, woman of 45. She is a brunette, with attractive features and luxuriant hair. She is a musician of talent, an entertaining conversationalist, and in every way an accomplished lady.

At about midnight of last Tuesday Mrs. Dangerfield was attacked in the Asbury Park cottage where she has been a summer guest by Edmund C. Blunt of Washington, son of a well-to-do cement merchant of that city, but himself a young man of somewhat malodorous record for dissipation and brawling. He visited the cottage when obviously under the influence of liquor, demanded to see Mrs. Dangerfield, who, it would appear, had before been subjected to gossip because of her acquaintance with him, was repulsed by the lady of the house, but forced his way towards Mrs. Dangerfield's room. She came out upon the landing in her dressing-gown, remonstrated with him vainly, and was brutally struck by him in the face and choked. She finally made her escape and was locked up in a summer house adjoining the cottage until a policeman could be found. Blunt was arrested and the next morning was fined $15 and costs by a local magistrate. Mrs. Dangerfield disappeared from Asbury Park that same morning.

THE SCENE AT THE COTTAGE.

The story of the scene at the Park cottage is printed in full here this morning. It is stated that Mrs. Dangerfield came to Asbury alone some three weeks ago and went to live at the cottage of Mrs. Engard. Mrs. Engard has lived here fifteen years, and only receives as guests, rather than boarders, a few friends each summer. Mrs. Dangerfield applied for room at her cottage armed with the most unexceptional references, bringing letters from Mrs. Fitzhugh and Mrs. Carroll, her aunts, who are well known in Washington, and who are spending the summer here at the Curlew House. The hotel was crowded when Mrs. Dangerfield arrived, so she could not put up there, and Mrs. Engard took her in.

Last Thursday Miss Susie Wheat, also a Washington belle, called on Mrs. Dangerfield. Miss Wheat had just arrived from Newport. Soon after two gentlemen in a swell turnout drove up to the house, and Mrs. Dangerfield and Miss Wheat went away with them to the Monmouth Park races. They had not been gone long when Mr. Blunt dashed up to the house in a T cart. He rang the bell and the door was opened by Mrs. Engard's married daughter. She saw at a glance that he had been drinking. It was the first time he had ever called at the house, so she asked whom he wished to see.

"Mrs. Dangerfield. Is she in?"

"No, she has gone out," he was told.

"Whom did she go out with?"

"She went with a young lady," was the answer.

"Were there any men with them?" he persisted.

The lady became alarmed by the wicked gleam in the man's eye, so she answered, "No."

"Does she ever have men call here or go out with her?" he asked more savagely.

The now thoroughly frightened woman again answered in the negative, whereupon Blunt said: "Well, when she comes in tell her to wait. I want to see her," and turning on his heel he mounted his carriage and drove away. Mrs. Dangerfield, Miss Wheat and their escorts returned about 7 p. m. Mrs. Engard's daughter spoke about Blunt's visit.

"Oh, God, is he here?" she gasped.

Mrs. Dangerfield and Mrs. Engard's daughter, with a young man, sat on the porch until about 11 o'clock, when Mrs. Dangerfield went to her room for the night.

BLUNT'S BRUTAL ASSAULT.

About ten minutes after 11 Blunt, on his T-cart, came dashing up to the door, greatly under the influence of liquor. Of Mrs. Engard's daughter, who was on the porch, he learned that Mrs. Dangerfield had retired. He demanded to see her. Miss Engard went to call her and she agreed to come down when dressed. Blunt fumed, and finally declared he would not wait, and, thrusting Miss Engard aside, bounded up the stairs. Mrs. Dangerfield, who had been at her door, banged it shut, and Blunt, not knowing which was her room, kicked in the first door he reached, which was the room occupied by Mrs. Engard. Mrs. Engard screamed when he rushed into her room. He cursed his mistake, and, running across the hall, broke in another door, where a young married woman was cowering in terror with her baby.

Again he uttered a string of oaths and got out. The third time he was successful in finding Mrs. Dangerfield. As soon as he caught sight of her he clutched her by the throat and threw her on the bed, attired as she was only in her night robe. Then he raised a chair, and with it beat her cruelly about the head, face and body. Not satisfied with this, he dragged her by her hair around the room and out into the hallway. He cursed her meantime like a crazy man, and his oaths aroused every one in the cottage. The people became so frightened that they climbed out on the portico and stood there until the police, who had been telegraphed for, arrived.

Blunt Refuses to Talk.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Edmund Blunt was at the Brighton Beach race track yesterday afternoon for the first time this season. He seemed on excellent terms with himself, and as he quietly and unostentatiously dropped in and out of the crowd that almost overflowed the grand stand, and nodded pleasantly to the occasional friend he met, his mind and conscience appeared to be perfectly easy. Blunt is a slender young man, a little below medium height, but of graceful proportions. His face is smooth shaven, his cheeks have a paintish flush, and a pair of blue eyes light up a countenance which, surmounted by light hair, might almost be described as boyish, if it were not for the lines—still a long way off from wrinkles—that care, dissipation, study, illness or some other cause has drawn. Although he is a Southern man he has nothing of the appearance of the Southerner, but looks more like the typical New York youth. He wore a light-colored derby hat, a summer suit of grayish-white goods, the coat a sack, a "turn-over" collar. He was standing near the entrance to the paddock when approached by a reporter, and he turned a calm look of unrecognition when spoken to. As soon as he was made aware of the reporter's object he said, quietly and without the slightest change of expression: "You will excuse me, as I have nothing to say at all." Mr. Blunt then walked away and joined an acquaintance who called to him, and a moment later he disappeared in the crowd. He was interested in Zangbar in the steeplechase, and had at least two lost bets down during the day. He remained on the course until all the events for the day had been decided and after the last race, in which his Zangbar bet went down with the horse, disappeared in the stream of race-goers that poured out of the gates. Blunt, in spite of the fact that he has been raising horses for quite a number of years, appears to have few acquaintances among the horsemen who were congregated at Brighton Beach, and among those who knew him the majority were from the bigger tracks. All who did know him, though, spoke in pleasant terms of him, though the only faults he had were a rather quick temper and a too great fondness for conviviality. He is an amateur at racing, and throughout his connection with the running turf has maintained his character of amateur sportsman in admirable style. He has a fortune amply large to permit of his indulging his taste in that line and he even now maintains a small stud near Alexandria. Blunt is a University of Virginia man, from the Law Department, and for a number of years he has been practicing his profession in a desultory way in Washington, where he makes his home. His horses have always been home-bred and though he has now been buying horses whenever he found any he thought good enough to race, he clung to his rule of running only those of his own breeding. His racing colors are blue jacket and orange cap, and his stable at present contains 2-year-olds, one of them Somerset by Stratford, dam Imelda, and the other by imported. Macaroon, from Herodia. When he started this season he raced first at Washington. At that time he had Seymour, brother to Somerset, a very useful animal and now one of the fastest milers about New York. He lost him at last in a selling race, but his conduct when his horse was bid up was such that he became even more popular than before with the horsemen who knew him. As an amatur turfman he bore his losses with the philosophical good nature that horsemen affect whenever they can. At the Morris Park spring meeting he entered Seymour to sell for $2,600, and the blue and orange won. "Father Bill" Daly fancied the horse and bid on him with the result that when $4,200 had been reached, Seymour passed into the possession of the sage of Brighton Beach. His 2-year-olds were thought to be very promising youngsters, and as they are both in the great Futurity Stakes, the Blunt outlook seems very bright, but the youngsters have since fallen off, and Amateur Turfman Blunt will pay forfeit. He has just come up from Monmouth Park, where he went to the races every day, and where he kept up his reputation as a convivial spirit and racing enthusiast. On off days he put in his time at Long Branch, Asbury Park and other places in the vicinity. At the big Monmouth Park race course, he was usually accompanied by one or more ladies, and his deportment then, in public, as far as those who were associated with him knew, was sufficiently correct.

At the Home of the Dangerfields.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 30.—It was the newspapers which first communicated to the family of Reverdy Dangerfield in Alexandria the guarded intimation of the unpleasant occurrence in which Mrs. Reverdy Dangerfield and Mr. Edmund C. Blunt were involved at Asbury Park. The Dangerfields are in the best sense of the term one of the first families of Virginia and Blunt belongs to a good family in Washington, but is a rather degenerate offspring. Reverdy Dangerfield is about 40 years of age, the owner of extensive farming lands in the neighborhood of Alexandria. The lady belongs to a a distinguished family, the Nicholsons of this city, several of whom are officers in the United States army and navy. Edmund C. Blunt is described in the Washington city directory as a lawyer, but he has never practiced much in the courts. It is not more than a year ago since young Blunt got into a wrangle in a drinking saloon and was shot by a gambler named Mauss, who was not only a professional gambler, but a fugitive from justice at the time. The quarrel was about a bet on a horse race and it must in fairness be said that the shooting was not unprovoked, for Blunt had threatened Mauss with a knife before Mauss drew his revolver. There was no prosecution of the case, Blunt having recovered. When the correspondent called at the Dangerfield mansion in Alexandria yesterday, Dangerfield was not at home. He had left in the morning for Asbury Park to meet his wife. He knew nothing about the assaults which Blunt is reported to have committed. If the reports of Blunt's outrageous conduct at Asbury Park prove to be true it is obvious that Blunt might better have had any jury of twelve men in the country sit on his case than meet one of the Dangerfield brothers face to face. They do not make any threats, but they are men whose spirit is well known.

Ed Jones, whose name Blunt assumed at Asbury Park, is well known at Washington and belongs to a family of sporting men who are regarded as honorable in their profession. When seen here to-night he was very angry at the use that had been made of his name and declared he would have redress. Mrs. Reverdy Dangerfield is the mother of half a dozen children. The recent occurrence at Asbury Park has started gossip here about the noticeable attention which she paid to Blunt when he was suffering from the pistol-shot wound a year ago.

Last but Not Least. The final excursion of the season given by the SUNDAY POST-DISPATCH to its "want" advertisers takes place September 10. Put a want "ad" in to-morrow's SUNDAY POST-DISPATCH and go.

LIFE IN NEW CALEDONIA.

How Convicts Spend the Time—Story of a Frenchman Who Left the Island.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Mr. F. Ordinair recently returned from a long sojourn in Caledonia, the big island in the Pacific, to which several thousand French criminals have been transported for their country's good. It is a mistake, however, to suppose that many of these convicts spend their lives drudging away behind prison walls. If they behave themselves and do not try to escape, they are in time permitted to enjoy a good deal of liberty, live in cottages of their own outside the prisons, marry female convicts, and acquire more or less property. While in New Caledonia Mr. Ordinair met a beautiful young French woman and her husband. They lived in good style, entertained him handsomely, and as they were not convicts their guest was curious to know how it happened that they were living in such an out of the way part of the world. They satisfied his curiosity, and later he heard the story they told from the French authorities on the island. About twenty years ago a wealthy Frenchman named Lamy was condemned to life imprisonment in New Caledonia. It had been discovered that he had successively poisoned two legitimate wives, and the public sentiment was that he was very lucky to save his head. His sentence was that he should be kept at hard labor. It happened that in his new home, being far away from the French court that tried him, he was not confined very long in the prison gang and gradually gained many privileges. Mr. Ordinair hints that Lamy's money was influential in making convict life easy and comfortable for him. At the end of ten years the wife poisoner was as free as anyone could be who was not permitted to go anywhere he pleased. He wandered at will among the settlements of New Caledonia, bought property in Nouema, the chief town of the island and started a ranch on which, before long, he had 2,000 head of cattle. He had other business and enjoyed all privileges of a free colonist except that he could not quit the island where he had been condemned to perpetual exile. But, of course, the thing he most desired was the complete freedom that was denied him. In spite of his fortune and the comparative comfort he enjoyed, he made up his mind to go back to Europe if he could get there. One day he went to Nouema, wearing a very lugubrious face, and told the Governor of the penitentiary administration that the climate was simply killing him; if he did not have a change of air he would die. He begged for permission to spend six months in Sydney on account of his health. It is hinted that sympathy did not move the penitentiary authorities half so much as gold, which is capable of working miracles. A privilege that had never been extended to a prisoner on the island before was accorded to Lamy. He obtained permission to seek a change of air, and openly embarked for Australia on a French steamer, buying the best accommodations the vessel provided.

Lamy was now really a fugitive for he had not the slightest intention of returning again to New Caledonia. It did not take him long to discover that the Sydney air was not sufficiently curative, and he accordingly took his passage upon one of the San Francisco steamers, crossed North America and embarked from New York for Europe. A few months after Lamy should have reappeared in New Caledonia and his son and daughter-in-law, the young people who so handsomely entertained Ordinair, appeared on the scene. They were equipped with full powers to dispose of his property on the island and they settled in one of their father's houses and proceeded leisurely to realize upon the lands, houses, forests and herds of their parent. At last accounts he was still reposing from his adventures in a country bordering upon France.

MR. LONG ON FREE BOOKS.

HE INSTRUCTS THE PRINCIPALS AS TO HOW THEY ARE TO BE USED.

A Call on the Children to Bring Their Old Books to Use Until the Board Gets Out of Its Present Tangle—An Excellent Address on the Relation of the Teacher to the Pupil.

The annual meeting of the Principals of the public schools occurred in the board room this morning and the usual matters which claim the attention of those gentlemen on such occasions were discussed together with that vexed and battered question, free books.

The Principals came to receive instructions concerning the regulations under which the books were to be distributed and used and cared for and Supt. E. H. Long was there to instruct them, but Mr. Long was much in the position of the darling preacher, who, in the midst of a tangled discourse, stopped and exclaimed: "Bretheren, when a man undertakes to deliver himself of that which he is not possessed thereof he involves himself in a lab-y-rinth from which it is impossible to extricate himself therefrom." The board has not yet given its instructions on the free book question and Mr. Long had a difficult time explaining to the Principals what they would have to do when the board did introduce free books if they were introduced at all, and under the regulations one would naturally suppose ought to govern such a matter. He acquitted himself with skill, however, and to his credit be it said that the Principals are now better prepared to care for their part of the free book business than the board is to take care of its end.

SUPT. LONG'S INSTRUCTIONS.

When the principals assembled Mr. Long called the meeting to order and proceeded at once with the business of the day. He said there was more than usual cause for congratulation this year. Every one seemed to be enjoying good health and every one was back in the old place; there were no vacant chairs. The roll was called and Mr. Long then proceeded with his instructions. He said that more than a year ago the Teachers Committee issued instructions that no children should be received out of their districts. That rule he wanted vigorously enforced. If children from one district applied for admission to a school in another, they must be refused unless they had a permit from the office. Of course the children who attended a school last year would be received this year whether they lived in or out of the district, but no new children from another district should be received without a permit. Principals should try to persuade children to go to their own school, but if applicants insisted upon admission to another school they must be sent to the office, where a permit would be issued or refused as the circumstances of the case might dictate.

The noon hour has been changed, in fact the whole afternoon session has been moved forward half an hour. The hours now will be, dinner hour from 12 o'clock to 1 o'clock and school from 1 o'clock to 3:15 o'clock. Teachers and principals, in consequence of the shortening of the hour, would have to be on hand fifteen minutes instead of half an hour before school opened.

Mr. Long then said he would take up a matter which under the circumstances he would rather not talk about, because it had not been settled by the board. He hoped nothing that he said would be misconstrued, because, acting under instructions, he would simply do his best to inform the principals what they would have to do in the case of free books. The board had passed a resolution to introduce free books into the four lower grades. He did not doubt but that that resolution would be acted upon, but on account of a delay it would be a few days before the books could be obtained. The principals would therefore call upon the children to bring to school whatever books they had to tide over this time, and he thought that with these books and the indigent books which are now in the schools, they could get along until the board had taken action. The principals could make their requisitions on the supply agent now, and he would furnish them with books as rapidly as he could. Those books must not be taken home. Those were the instructions he had received, and he communicated them to the principals. They must be given out in the morning and collected at noon and night.

NOBODY'S FAULT.

Mr. Long said he hoped he would hear no complaints about the delay. It was nobody's fault in particular, and everything would no doubt be done to supply the books at the earliest possible moment. He would look to the principals to prevent complaints among the teachers and scholars. There would be some from the people, but that could not be helped.

The question was asked whether the books formerly placed in the Principal's hands for sale should now be sold.

Mr. Long said to instruct the pupils that those whose parents wished to buy books were at liberty to do so. Those who wished books supplied to them could get them. The books which pupils will bring at the beginning, while waiting for the supplies, would be used by them afterwards. It was not the intention that children who had books should leave them at home and get free books.

Mr. Henning W. Prentice of the Hodgen pointed out a distinction which would necessarily be made between scholars. Those who buy books or who already have them can take their books home. Those who are supplied with books cannot take them home.

By general consent this question seemed to be left to the board and it was not discussed. It is an important point, however, and one which will no doubt occupy the board's attention.

A PERTINENT QUESTION.

Another very pertinent question was raised. The Primary Geography and Fourth Reader are used half a year in the Fifth grade and half a year in the Fourth. The first half year they are free books, the second they must be bought or issued as indigent books, and it is the same with the spelling and music books, and with others that lop over from one grade to another. This is liable to cause serious complications, but Mr. Long said that he supposed the books would be furnished free the second half year, but that was a detail the board would no doubt settle.

HOW TO HANDLE CHILDREN.

That ended the discussion of free books and Mr. Long said one other important point he wished to speak about was the attitude of teachers toward their scholars. The best way to get children to do a thing is to make it a matter of principle. He believed in that because there was a moral aspect to it and because it made the work easier and pleasanter for the teacher. If that idea prompted the teacher's conduct toward the pupil, if a child was taught to study and behave because it ought to and it was right, the results would be far better and the discipline just as perfect as when lessons are learned under compulsion and the good conduct enforced by rule, and the children would become better scholars and better men and women. As to home study, he had always favored it because of its effect upon the parent and the community, but it had long been a custom which ought to be rigidly enforced to explain carefully to the children every new subject taken up. Not to explain every problem, for the object of teaching was not to fill the heads of childen with information, but to nurture and develop their thinking faculties. Explain what they do not know and then let them study over it to see whether with their past studies and their thinking powers they cannot solve for themselves the new problems. If they can, the better for them, if they cannot then show them how. But parents said that if their children could not work out their problems in new studies before they went to school they would receive a bad mark. If he had his way he would throw the system of marking out of the district schools. It was necessary in the higher schools, but in his opinion it was harmful in the district schools. The scholars who received good marks were too greatly encouraged; those who received bad marks too greatly discouraged. It ought not to be held against a pupil if he has tried hard to prepare his problems on a new subject if he comes to school and says he is unable to do it. On the contrary, that is just what they ought to be told to do. Try, and if they succeed, good; if not, come and say so, and the teacher will then teach.

At the conclusion of Mr. Long's admirable address the meeting adjourned.

Murderer McCarty.

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 30.—Ed McCarty, the murderer who was brought into the police station last midnight, had been in hiding in a lumber camp on the Kentucky side of the river opposite Rising Sun, Ind. His presence there was made known to Chief of Police Deitsch yesterday and he started two men to the place in a buggy. McCarty was hauling lumber and came in after dark, when the officers pounced upon him suddenly. He made an effort to draw his revolver, but was quickly disarmed. He says he walked all the way to that place and had read the papers telling of his crime. He did not attempt to deny the killing, but says he was compelled to do it in self-defense. In the police court this morning he was arranged before a crowded court room. His counsel asked for a continuance of the case, which was granted, until the 10th of September. Meanwhile he goes to jail, the offense not being bailable.

BLAINE'S NEW POLICY.

His Speech in Favor of Reciprocity at a Mass-Meeting at Waterville, Me.

WATERVILLE, Me., Aug. 30.—After being introduced as the "famous advocate of a progressive tariff" to a mass-meeting here last night, Secretary Blaine said:

I wish to declare the opinion that the United States has reached a point where one of its highest duties is to enlarge the area of its foreign trade. Under the beneficent policy of protection we have developed a volume of manufactures which, in many departments, overrun the demands of the home markets. In the field of agriculture, with the immense propulsion given in it by agricultural implements, we can do far more than produce breadstuffs and provisions for our own people; nor would it be an ambitious destiny for so great a country as ours to manufacture only what we can consume, or to produce only what we can eat. We are already, in many fabrics and in many products, far beyond that, and our great demand is expansion. I mean expansion of trade with countries where we can find profitable exchanges. We are not seeking annexations of territory. At the same time I think we should be unwisely content if we did not seek to engage in what the younger Pitt so well termed annexation of trade. * * * As I have already intimated, I am here to speak of the expansion of our foreign trade, not by any novel process, not by any mode that will shock or disturb home industries, not by any mode that will invite our people to rash experiments, or that will launch us in doubtful and dangerous investments. What I mean to speak of, briefly, is a system of reciprocity not in conflict with a protective tariff, but supplementary thereto, and presenting a field of enterprise that will richly repay the effort and energy of the American people. We shall find it instructive and valuable to examine into the sources of our imports and the destination of our exports, and to strike a balance between the two. Take last year—1889. In that year our whole exports to all the countries in the three continents of Europe, Asia and Africa, and to Australia, Canada and Hawaii, amounted in round numbers to $658,000,000, and our imports from all these countries amounted in round numbers to $529,000,000, showing that from that vast trade we had a balance of $129,000,000 in our favor, equivalent to that amount of gold among our people. But when all the accounts were closed, instead of having $129,000,000 in our favor, we had a balance of $13,000,000 against us from our foreign trade. We must therefore have lost $142,000,000 in our commerce with the countries outside of those to which I have referred. Where could we have found such a large adverse balance? Let me tell you: We lost $41,000,000 in Cuba, from which our imports were $52,000,000 and to which our exports were only $11,000,000. Forty-one million is a pretty large sum to lose in one island in a single year. In the Republic of Brazil we lost $51,000,000. Our imports from Brazil were $60,000,000. Our exports to Brazil were $9,000,000. In Mexico we lost $10,000,000. Imports from Mexico were $21,000,000; our exports to Mexico were $11,000,000. To sum it all up, our imports from the countries south of us, both insular and continental, on this hemisphere, were $216,000,000; our exports to them were $74,000,000. The balance against us in our trade with those countries, therefore, is $142,000,000, exceeding our gains from all the rest of the world by $13,000,000. By no figure of speech can we flatter ourselves into the belief that our trade with our American neighbors is in a prosperous condition. * * * During the war we were compelled to tax almost everything in the air, in the water on the earth and under the earth. The necessities of the Government were so great that we could allow scarcely anything to be imported without paying tribute, and I think no patriotic man can deny that that was a wise policy. We were not then studying the philosophy of trade relations, but how to save the life of the nation. Money was the primal necessity and we seized it wherever we could reach it lawfully. But during the last eighteen years a great change has been made. So entirely has the war tariff been abolished that in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1889, the articles admitted free were considerably more than one-third of all the imports. To be exact, the imported articles that paid duty exceeded $488,000,000 in value, and the imported articles that paid no duty exceeded $256,000,000 in value. The inevitable tendency is, I think, toward an increase of the free list. Our great mistake was made when we began to repeal the war duties on so large an amount of imports. Any duty repealed was a favor and an advantage to the exporting country, and we have asked nothing in return. Instead of this course (which I must say was one of carelessness and wastefulness by both political parties) every repeal of duty should have been preceded by a most thorough investigation, and whenever it was found practicable to export anything from the United States, and thus establish reciprocity of trade, it should have been done. * * * We encounter opposition to this policy from those who declared that if we enter into reciprocity of trade with one country we must do so with all countries, and thus indirectly bring about free trade. I do not see the logic of this and I am sure the fact will not prove what is predicted. We may enter into reciprocity with another nation because we find advantage in it. We may decline to enter into reciprocity with another nation because we see no advantage in it. Reciprocity is simply a policy of circumstance to be determined favorably or adversely, according as its operation may make or lose for us.

HIS HORSE HAD THE HEAVES.

And That Was Why Albert Butler Lost a Pretty Young Widow.

LAPEER, Mich., Aug. 30.—Lewis Clam lives in Burnside Township, this county, so does Albert Butler, likewise a pretty young widow. Both Clam and Butler fell in love with the widow and she kept them both on the string. Clam called on her Tuesday night and told her how much he loved her and wanted her to change her name. She consented and the day was named. Clam had no sooner left the house than Butler, who had been waiting outside, called and earnestly advised her not to be Clam. She said she would not if he would make haste and get a marriage license. Butler promised to use all haste, but Clam found out Butler's intentions and as soon as the County Clerk's office was opened Wednesday morning he got a license. Less than an hour afterward Butler got his license and Clam heard of it. Each knew the other's intention and each hired a horse to beat the other to the widow's house. Butler played in hard luck, as he got a horse that had the heaves, and while his horse was standing still in the road and coughing as if his ears would drop off, Clam dashed by and arrived at the house ten minutes ahead of Butler, and by the time the tardy young man arrived at the Justice's house to urge his case the widow had become Mrs. Clam.

AN ADVANCE IN COAL.

PRICES TO BE RAISED SEVERAL PEGS MONDAY MORNING.

Coal That Has Been Sold all Summer at $6.50 Per Ton, Soon to Be $7.50—W. W. Sylvester Explains the Cause of the Jump—Edward Devoy on the Subject—Another Rise Promised Before the Winter is Over.

Monday morning coal will be 25 to 50 cents per ton higher than it is to-day, and from that date on through the winter the rates will advance. About six weeks ago the coal mine owners and operators met in New York and raised the price of coal 22 cents per ton, causing an advance here of 25 cents per ton. It also caused an advance in Chicago and all Western cities. Through a general understanding coal dealers have decided to raise the prices, and on September 1 the rates will be advanced all over the West.

HARD COAL PRICES.

"The ruling prices for hard coal are now, and have been for the past sixty days, $6.75 and $7 per ton, according to size," said W. W. Sylvester, Treasurer of the Sylvester Coal Co., to-day.

"These prices, however, have been cut to a considerable extent on large orders, but on and after September 1 I look for much firmer rates and greater unity of prices, to say nothing of an advance of 25 cents or 50 cents, which is bound to come. Should the ruling figures be $7 and $7.25 as I anticipate, they will still be 25 cents lower than they were this time last year, as coal on September 1 a year ago was selling for $7.25 and $7.50. The reason for this annual advance as fall comes upon us is apparent.

"During spring and early summer months, in order to keep the mines in operation, the producers and railroads in conjuction make the lowest possible figures for delivery of anthracite coal in the Western cities. This low price naturally forces the sale of a large amount of coal during these months, but as the fall approaches and the natural demand for supplies of this kind begins to come in, the operators naturally want to realize a moderate profit for their sales, much of which during the spring and summer has been put out at cost. The railroads, too, come in for their share, and an advance all along the line makes it imperative for the retailer in large cities to keep pace with the movement. I do not predict any scare, although I would not be surprised to see coal touch $8 or higher during the winter, especially if it is a severe one. The mild winters for the past two years have been very disastrous for the coal trade all over the country, and if there is anything in the law of average, we ought to experience a change pretty soon.

WHEN YOU CONSIDER.

"These prices are not exorbitant and there is no 'gouge' as some claim. Anthracite coal at $7 and $7.50 a ton is cheap property when you consider it is carried about one thousand miles by rail, with a bridge arbitrary and cost of delivery added. State Railroad Commissioners say that railroads cannot carry freight for less than ½ a cent per ton per mile, and make money. Yet the rates from the East on coal are far below ½ a cent per ton per mile. Say the distance from the mines to St. Louis is 1,000 miles and the rate ½ a cent. That would be $5 per ton. Then add the bridge toll, 40 cents per ton; delivering, 50 cents per ton; loss, 10 cents per ton. This would make a ton cost $6 without counting the cost of mining, the profit of the operator and the profit of the dealer. The freight rate, however, is not $5 per ton, and that is why we can sell coal for less than $9 and $10 per ton."

SURE TO BE AN ADVANCE.

Edward Devoy of the Devoy & Feuerborn Coal Co. promised a raise in the cost of coal, saying: "We have been selling coal this year at $6.50 to $6.75 to family trade, but the price has advanced to $6.75 to $7 as the coal became scarce. Eastern operators advanced the price 22 cents per ton and we had to do the same. In a day or so another advance from 50 to 75 cents a ton will be made. This includes advanced freight rates of 25 cents about to be made. During the summer the railroads carry grain East and on the way back fill up the cars with hard coal, which they carry at a very low rate rather than return with empty cars. When the lake traffic is about closing for the year the railroads, relieved of the competition, advance the rates. As the demand for coal increases the mine operators advance the prices in winter and hence the wide difference in prices during the summer and winter.

"With a fluctuation of $1 a ton in a year there appears to be a big chance for speculation, but there is not. The combination between the operators is so weak and the probability of their beginning a war against each other any time, makes the risk too great. A dealer storing 100,000 bushels during the summer bought at $6.50 to sell in winter at $7.50 and make $100,000 may have to sell during a war at $5.50 and lose as much."

STOLE A WIFE.

Ex-Preacher Sanborn Meets a Wronged Husband in Cleveland.

George M. Sanborn, ex-pastor of the Church of the Redeemer (Congregational), Barrett street and Tompson avenue, narrowly escaped death at the hands of an infuriated husband in Cleveland, O., on Tuesday. Sanborn left St. Louis a year ago last May, and went to Eureka, Cal., where he was engaged to preach by the Congregational Society. In the society were J. T. Ricks and wife. They were very friendly to the new pastor, as were all the other members. The society prospered and a new church was built. Mrs. Ricks became very fond of Sanborn and he reciprocated her affection. Four months ago Mrs. Ricks left her husband's home for Reno to visit. She took her two children with her. Sanborn suddenly resigned his charge, announced his intention of leaving the ministry altogether and of going to Chicago, where he would practice law.

It was learned a few days later that he had met Mrs. Ricks and they had gone away together.

Mr. Ricks, after a long search, located them last Tuesday in Cleveland. He found them living as George M. Sanborn and wife at No. 9 Granger street and his two children were with them. Sanborn had obtained employment in a shoe store and was not at all pleased to see Ricks, who would have killed him had he not been restrained.

Subsequently the husband and wife met and she released all her claim upon his property, gave up the children, took $200 and announced her intention of remaining with Sanborn. Ricks is on his way back to Eureka with his children and is happy.

Sanborn came to St. Louis from Little Rock in 1888. He had there married a Mrs. Price, a divorced woman much older than himself. They did not live happily together and one of their upheavals Sanborn suddenly resigned the pastorate of the Church of the Redeemer. His resignation was accepted at once by the trustees for, although he was an earnest, eloquent preacher, he lacked virtues that seemed necessary in the view of the trustees. There was some gossip concerning his relations with one lady in the society, but there were no charges openly made. He was much chagrined over the immediate acceptance of his resignation and the brevity of the resolution of confidence. His wife and her daughter returned to Little Rock, where they are now living.

A NEW RAILROAD.

TO OPEN UP THE RESOURCES OF THE NORTH END.

Bellefontaine and Calvary Cemeteries to Be Brought Within Easy Reach—What the Road Is and Where It Goes—New City Hall Complications—Maj. Murphy's Discovery—Municipal Matters.

A bill was introduced into the House of Delegates last night by Mr. Siegmund, authorizing the Eads Bridge, Fair Grounds & Cemetery Railroad Co. to construct an electric railway. The line of the road is to be from Third and Locust streets, north to O'Fallon, thence to Seventh, thence to Cass avenue, thence west to Ninth, thence north to Mullanphy, west to Nineteenth, thence to Benton, thence to Twenty-second, north to Hebert street, west to Twenty-fifth, north to Palm, thence to Parnell, thence to Barrett, thence to Grand avenue, to Lee, to Newstead, to Florrissant, passing Bellefontaine to the south gate of Calvary cemetery. The incorporators are D. B. Gould, Jas. Bannerman, D. P. Rowland, J. M. Loring, L. G. McNair, John B. Rankin, E. H. Linley, and Pulaski Langalier.

In a conversation with Mr. David B. Gould to-day that gentleman gave much information as to the plans of the project, etc.

"The necessity for a line covering the territory through which we propose to extend ours," he said, "has been apparent for some time. There is at present no method of transportation to and from Bellefontaine and Calvary, and only last Sunday there were three or four thousand people out there who were put to serious inconvenience by the lack of proper transfer facilities. The portion of the city through which we pass has inadequate railway facilities also. I hold that the development of this city dates from the time of the construction of the first cable lines. Rapid transportation does more to develop a portion of a city than any other agency. There are many beautiful tracts of land lying along our line which would make as desirable homesteads as any in St. Louis were they convenient to an electric or cable line. We propose to furnish an electric line which will meet this necessity. The criticism has often been passed that St. Louis has fewer outlying additions that are a credit to it than any city of its size in the country. We are going to try and rectify this condition. While we feel that the investment will bring no profitable returns for two or three years, it must eventually do so. We have not as yet agreed upon the system, but will look them all over and get the best. We want to make the trip from Third and Locust to the south gate of Calvary in about 40 minutes. If it is to the interest of the promoters, we will extend the line and open up the large tracts lying north of the city."

The ordinance was given first reading last night and every effort will be made to have it passed in the shortest possible time. The backers of the road are all well known business men of St. Louis, and the fact that they are interested in the plan is in itself an endorsement.

Getting Badly Mixed.

Things are becoming somewhat tangled over the new City Hall and the officials are beginning to kick about the site selected and are trying to blame each other for what they did not do. When the City Hall Commission was formed they went about selecting a site, which they finally did after a good deal of fuss. When Washington Park was selected they put into the code of competition a clause providing that the center of the east front should be on the center line of Walnut street so that a fine view of the hall could be had from the East. They never thought of grades and the hill which would obstruct the view was not considered at all. After the changes in grades had been recommended by the architect the commission was called together and recommended the change to the board. Now the members say that the commission did not do so, and that the whole thing was very informal, and that it was left to the discretion of the board and so on. Several who were on the commission toward the latter part of its existence now disapprove of the site, but say that they could do nothing, as they were not in office when the choice was made.

Yesterday afternoon the Council Committee tried to get at the matter in some sort of shape, but with little success. They got plenty of conflicting opinions from a variety of reliable sources and were left in the end as badly off as they were before. What will be done is a doubtful question. Some say that the City Hall can be seen if one comes close enough. Gen. Stevenson, the Comptroller, says that he does not see why special provisions should be made for seeing the building from Walnut street any more than from any other, and then others argue that if the hall is not to be seen why build it. The whole thing is becoming very much tangled.

A Valuable Find.

The preliminary work having been completed, Commissioner Murphy commenced the survey of the river front from Elwood street to the River Des Peres this morning. The work is very important, as upon the result will depend the gaining by the city of many thousand feet of additional wharf. In examining the records of his office some time since, Maj. Murphy unearthed an old ordinance of the city of Carondelet, entitled:

"An ordinance to remove obstructions from the river shore within the limits of this town and for other purposes." Sec. 1 of the ordinance dedicates "the towpath or water street along the river front within the limits of said town, as a public wharf forever." After consultation with the Mayor it was determined to make a survey of that portion of the river front described above and establish the present wharf line. Maj. Murphy estimates that fully $50,000 worth of property will be secured to the city by this survey.

From a Farmer.

Mr. C. M. Forman of Nashville, Ill., brother of the Congressman, has written a letter to Harbor Commissioner Murphy, asking him if some arrangement cannot be made under the new method of disposing of the city garbage for utilizing such part of it as can be applied to fertilizing purposes. Mr. Forman says that the farmers in his neighborhood are all very much interested in the matter and would like to get hold of the thousands of tons of good fertilizer which are annually dumped into the river. Maj. Murphy will talk the question over with the Mayor.

Don't Like Water.

Barney Taaffe, Superintendent of the Poor-house, visited the City Hall yesterday on business connected with the institution. He said: "I see the board was figuring on bath tubs for my hotel out there. They don't know all about that bath tub business and don't realize what a disturbance they create when they talk to paupers about bathing. It is an actual fact that we lose a large number of boarders every year simply because we try to make them bathe. One rule of the institution is that every pauper upon his arrival shall be given a thorough washing and be dressed in clean clothes; we have had many who left the institution rather than take that bath. A pauper, as a rule, would rather work than take a bath."

By a decision of the board, three new bath-tubs will be added to the Poor-house outfit, and the paupers disturbed in proportion.

The Collecting Squad.

On every payday there assembles at the City Hall, in the vicinity of the City Treasury, a gathering of men who strike terror into the souls of a majority of the city employes. They are collectors waiting to pounce upon the unfortunate as soon as he draws his pay. Every scheme imaginable is adopted to dodge these collectors, and sometimes a clerk or inspector lets his money remain in the treasury a week before he gets it. Other cases are known where another employe who has no collector on his trail is authorized to draw the salary of the man in debt and keep it until the collector is tired out. The collectors have become very expert, however, and are up to nearly all the tricks.

ARRESTED FOR FRAUD.

Frank G. Bauer Charges J. Finney With Having Mulcted Him.

This morning Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Dierkes issued a warrant, charging J. Finney with fraud. The defendant, an intelligent looking young man, is now locked up in the Four Courts hold-over, having been unable to furnish the proper bond. The case against him is a peculiar one.

The prosecuting witness is a young man named Frank G. Bauer. His home for several years has been on Cottage Grove avenue in Chicago. He is now stopping at 200 South Twelfth street. It appears that Bauer came to St. Louis about a week ago. In looking over the daily papers he ran across an advertisement which purported to be that of J. Kinney & Co., book agents, in a room in the Emilie Building, 906 Olive street. Agents were wanted and a good salary was guaranteed. Baum went to the place and was met by a well-dressed young man, who introduced himself as J. Finney. He said he had inserted the advertisement, but told Bauer that he was too late to get the job, as he had just sent a man to Kansas City that day. He advised him to watch the papers, however, as he would want a man to go to Springfield in a few days. Bauer kept his eye open as directed and on the 26th inst. saw the advertisement. He called at the Emilie Building again and signed a contract to work for J. Finney & Co. three months at a salary of $60 per month. He was to go to Springfield, Ill., and canvass for a line of books. The young man was told that he would have to make a deposit of $25 to pay for the outfit, which would be sent to him at Springfield by express the following day.

Bauer went to Springfield that same evening and the following morning appeared at the express offices for his outfit. Nothing had come. He waited an entire day and then telegraphed to J. Finney & Co. asking what was the matter. He received no answer. Another day passed and he became suspicious. He telegraphed his employers to send him his outfit or return his $25. There was no reply. Yesterday evening Bauer returned to St. Louis and went at once to the Emilie Building. J. Finney was not in. The young man made a second call this morning and demanded the return of his money. Finney refused to accede to his request. Neither would he give Bauer an outfit, claiming that he had not followed his instruction. The key to the door was on the table. Seeing that argument was useless Bauer snatched it up, and before Finney could realize his design had slammed the office door and locked it from the outside. With the key in his pocket Bauer ran to the Four Courts for an officer. Capt. Young detailed Officer Fuqua and the two started for Olive street. At the corner of Eleventh and Clark avenue they met Finney, who said he was on his way to the Four Courts to cause Bauer's arrest for locking him in his room. He had escaped by climbing over the transom. Finney was taken into custody notwithstanding his expostulations. He has as yet made no statement of the trouble, offering, however, to bet the officer $50 to 10 cents that he was innocent. Robert Kuensler, 1407 Pine street, is a witness for the prosecution, he having answered one of Finney's advertisements. The prisoner gives his age as twenty-three years, says he is a married man and lives at Kirkwood. Inquiries made by the police officers failed to disclose the stock of books which the prisoner claimed to have on hand. The case will be aired in the courts, as Bauer will remain in the city to see the thing through.

The lodge will be instituted about the 2d of September, and the Grand Chancellor, Jos. H. Hawthorne, will probably officiate.

Efforts which promise good results are being made at St. Charles for the establishment of a lodge at that place, and it is expected that very soon the tri-color banner of "Friendship, Charity and Benevolence" will be planted at the mouth of the Missouri.

The committees appointed by the Grand Chancellor will be notified during the coming week and a list of same promulgated from his office.

IN DEFENSE OF HER HONOR.

H. T. McCabe Explains the Killing of Max Stein in Mexico.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Aug. 30.—A brief announcement of the murder of Max Stein, District Judge of the Hidalgo County Circuit Court, was contained in the dispatches of August 19. He was shot by the wife of ex-Judge H. P. McCabe, a bitter political enemy at Reynosa, Mexico, and no reasonable motive could be ascribed until yesterday, when the following affecting appeal was received:

REYNOSA, Mexico, Aug. 20.

To the American People:

For two months I have been in my bed, disabled from a gunshot wound in the foot. During this time my wife, Maria Inez, who is but 18 years old, almost from day to day has been followed and insulted by one Max Stein. He has even followed her with armed men, has questioned her virtue, and wrote a letter to the Sheriff of Karnes County, in which he expressed the belief that I was not married to her. She was brought to bed and confined prematurely, and our babe was lost, all through these unheard of terrible slurs and slanders cast upon her by this same Stein, and defending that most dear to a woman, her honor, she shot him through the heart and forever sealed the polluted lips of a slanderer of women's virtue. The shooting occurred in Reynosa, Tamulpas, Mexico, on the 17th inst. She, my wife, is now in jail at this place. We are, indeed, in need of financial aid. Gentlemen of America, can you help my wife now in her sad plight? Do it by voluntary contributions, in the name of woman's sanctified virtue. Send any amount that may be raised to either Albert Dean of Hidalgo, Tex.; H. P. Rentfro of Brownsville, or Don Juan Dominguez of this place, who compose a committee to receive whatever is given to defend my wife.

Yours truly, H. T. McCABE.

The shooting occurred at Reynosa, where an excursion party from Metamoras was attending a fair. After an evening performance at the theater Judge Stein, accompanied by his wife and daughter, entered a booth for refreshments. The ladies had taken seats at a table and Judge Stein was about to sit down when Mrs. McCabe rushed up to them, her long black hair streaming in the air. She seized the Judge by the arm, held a pistol to his breast and fired, and the man fell dead at her feet. Mrs. Stein sprang up and was felled to the ground by a blow from the infuriated woman's pistol. The murderess, who is described as a beautiful woman, also knocked the Chief of Police down with her pistol and held a policeman at bay with the same weapon until she was disarmed and imprisoned by a squad of soldiers. Mrs. McCabe's husband, who held the position of County Judge of Carna County, Tex., for which he was ineligible, had been recently unseated, his successor being Judge Stein. McCabe, with a number of friends, endeavored to capture the Court-house, but, failing, fled to Mexico, where he has since resided. Mrs. McCabe had sworn vengeance against Stein.

Startling Discovery.

The discovery by the inhabitants of a locality hitherto unvisited by the pestilent scourge of fever and ague, that it exists in their very midst, is decidedly startling. Such discoveries are made at every season, in every part of the Union. Subsequently, when it is ascertained, as it invariably is at such times, through the valuable experience of someone who has been benefited and cured, that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is a thoroughly efficacious eradicator of the malarial poison and a means of fortifying the system against it, a feeling of more security and tranquility reigns throughout the whole neighborhood. Besides the febrile forms of malarial disease, dumb ague and ague cake are removed by the potent action of the Bitters, to which science also gives its sanction as a remedy for rheumatism, dyspepsia, constipation, liver complaint, debility, kidney troubles and all diseases impairing the organs of digestion and assimilation.

LOOK FOR HAPPINESS
Also, Look for McNichol.

Summer is waning, the leaves will turn,
The bright blue skies will darker grow;
The birds for brighter climes will yearn,
And sadder will the river flow.
The brief glad days are going fast,
The harvest sheaves stand on the hill,
And soon the summer will be past
And all the groves be still.

Yet nature offers in exchange
Some blessings for the ones that fade,
And while there's life it will be strange
If hearts lose hope because of shade.
A thousand busy thoughts awake
For coming pleasures in the fall—
For ease of sorrow and heartache
In palace, cot and hall.

But now the sower reaps his seed,
The fields stand ripening in the sun;
Now is the time that winter's need
Comes to us when the day is done.
Thrice blest is he who early sees
Necessity for putting by,
And cheers his loved ones by degrees
Against the storm now hovering nigh.

Go with the portion you can spare
To one who helps much the set man—
McNichol; leave things to his care,
And try his new installment plan.
Make effort now in health and strength
To keep the substance, waste the foam;
And when the tempest breaks at length
You will be sheltered in your home.

Mark how the little birds and insects prepare for ugly weather when the summer has gone. Go thou and do likewise. It will be far easier than you think. Make your loved ones comfortable, at little expense. Pay by the week.

The rapid manner in which lots are being sold at Oak Hill Place has prompted us to establish an office on the ground, for the convenience of purchasers. The terms upon which the lots are sold, being only $50 cash and $10 per month, give every one an opportunity to secure a home site, or a real estate investment, where property is bound to rapidly increase in value. Oak Hill Place is located on the south side of Tower Grove Park, midway between Grand avenue and King's highway; the Pine Street Electric Cars go direct to the property every three minutes. The prices placed on the property range from $10 to $16 per foot, and as it is high, healthy, well drained and contiguous to city water and electric lights it is unquestionably the cheapest and best property in the city for the money.

Our branch office is located on the northwest corner of Arsenal Street and Morgan Ford Road (Arsenal Street is the southern boundary line of Tower Grove Park and the street on which the Pine Street Electric Cars run), where our representative can be found every day until September 1, from 10 a. m. to 6:30 o'clock p. m.

WITH JOY AND DESPAIR.

HOWARD FIELDING'S FEELINGS HURT ON READING THOMAS PLATT'S ADVICE.

He Writes an Essay of His Own on Politics That Has an Interest of Its Own—The Physical Side of Practical Politics Has a Little Light Shed Upon It in an Agreeable Narrative Form.

I HAVE read with mingled joy and despair the communication from Mr. Thomas Platt which appeared in the paper a week ago. I rejoiced to see that justly celebrated reformer come right out boldly and reform things, flat-footed, over his own signature; but, as a young man, I despaired of attaining that high standard of usefulness to my country which he exhorts us to keep forever in view.

Mr. Platt is quite right in saying that the reformation of politics is a task for youth to undertake. It is little use for a man who is getting along in life and cannot reasonably expect to be able to "hump himself" more than forty or fifty years longer, to tackle the purification of politics, for he will probably have to die and leave the job only about half done. The distinguished writer of that epistle has been toiling for many days right here in New York State, and yet there is much to be desired; while not even Tammany Hall has been able to purify the metropolis.

Now as a young man I tried to do a little purifying in a mild way once, and though I didn't make an entire success of it, my experience and observation may be helpful to other young men who will be moved by Mr. Platt's appeal to embark in that line of business. If I recall the facts of that interesting period aright I was then living in the Second Ward of Boston. I remember that a well-known citizen named Gallagher, whose moral character was as beautiful as a fighting bull pup, had been nominated for alderman by one of the two parties. I really forget which one it was; but I know that the other party seemed likely to put up one Anderson, whose saloon had a record of six more fights in three months than Gallagher's had. I forget what his other qualifications for office were, but I know that some of the silk stocking element were kicking.

It was at this juncture that some of the young men in the ward began to talk about reform. I can't remember just what were, but I know that they proposed to nominate a decent man, and had been at work several days trying to find one when I joined the movement. I remarked that they needn't look any further, but they did. This offended me so much that I split off from them temporarily, and hunted up the Second Ward Independent Association with a view to offering my services.

In the Caucus. "I Take the Chair."

I learned of the existence of this association from a poster in a barber's shop, which announced that the independents would give a grand, select ball the following week. It struck me as a good idea to make politics pleasant in this way. I found the headquarters of the association one floor below the ground at the rear of a saloon. When I entered President Johnson, sitting on the end of a beer cask, was just dealing a jack-pot on the head of a barrel. Mr. Johnson was the color of the ace of spades—which he had in his sleeve. I learned that the object of the association was to obtain recognition at the polls, but I did not find out just what amount of recognition in dollars and cents would be satisfactory.

I was invited to join the association and come into the jack-pot, but after discovering where Mr. Johnson kept the aces I did not care to do either. However, not to give offense, I paid the assessment of $1, whereupon the Secretary and Treasurer, despite the President's protest, sent out for a new pack of cards and

A QUART OF BEER.

After this experience I returned to the Young Men's Reform Club. We were told, just as Mr. Platt says, that the place to reform politics is in the primary. We decided to go to the primary and run it right. By ascertaining the number of votes cast at the last primary and dividing it by three we obtained a fairly accurate estimate of the attendance. Then we set about securing the pledges of all the young men who had the interests of their country at heart, and before the night of the caucus we got so many that we felt sure of having a majority on our side.

We had determined to nominate a gentleman of distinguished lineage and high moral character who had hitherto kept aloof from politics. He assured us by letter of his acceptance, but regretted that a social engagement prevented him from attending the caucus. It was arranged that I should take the chair. I had had some experience in a debating society, and flattered myself that I could preside with grace and dignity.

We marched to the hall in a body. It was more nearly filled than we had anticipated; in fact it was entirely filled with tobacco smoke, the odor of which was perceptible at a distance of several blocks. We marched in, but were somewhat disappointed at being obliged to take position at the rear, for the railing was already fortified with about ten rows of very solid toughs.

The meeting was opened by the chairman of the ward association, who congratulated "de boys" on the last glorious triumph, and casually mentioned the name of Anderson, whereat there were loud yells of approval. Then he called for nominations for permanent chairman, and the gang with suggested a person named Yates, who was president of the Second Ward Crib Club and several other organizations of the elite. My name was also proposed by a young gentleman of the debating club who had prepared a neat speech which nobody heard. Somehow we did not appear to be getting on, and I suggested that we move nearer the railing. We attempted to do so, and received our first lesson in practical politics.

I am forced to confess that only one of our number developed any fitness for this duty of citizenship. We were almost all college men, well grounded in political economy and the science of government, but the young man whom I have mentioned was the only one of us who appeared to have gained anything in college which was useful in the present emergency. He had played four years in the 'varsity foot-ball team, and this matter of moving up to the railing was right in his line. The way he stood Second Ward toughs on their heads was the most beautiful lesson in practical politics that I ever saw. It was full of suggestions to those whose duty it is to prepare the youth of the country for participation in popular government. If it had not been for this young man, whose name was Brown, we never should have had any show at all in that caucus. But it was just like sport to him. He played that I was a foot-ball, and he secured a touch down with me on the railing in just ten seconds after the game began. By this time realized what was going on and they crowded upon us. Brown put his back against me, as I hung over the rail, and received the onslaught on his ample chest. For a moment I was in doubt whether the rail or my spine would break first; then the rail gave way and we went through.

When we got upon the platform Brown immediately descended into the crowd to pay his respects to some of the toughs who had been particularly offensive. While he was thus engaged my supporters, who had now gained some courage, yelled for me to take the chair. But Yates had crawled under the rail, and now held the chair by the back. He was a large man with a broken nose, and he did not look pleasant. When my friends shouted: "Fielding, take the chair!" Mr. Yates swung the chair around his head, and I took it. In fact, I took it just where most people take a chair, and it lifted me clear off the floor and nearly carried me out through a window on the right of the platform.

Mr. Fielding Discovers the Second Ward Independent Republican Association.

After this performance Yates rapped for order and called for nominations of "gents ter receive, sort an' count de votes."

Mr. Brown thereupon approached the railing and announced that I was to be one of the tellers. Mr. Yates looked Mr. Brown all over and said he guessed that I could be a teller without the formality of a vote. Other names were suggested, and the voting soon began. I don't mind saying that if it hadn't been for Brown we shouldn't have got a dozen votes in the box; as it was we polled a fair number. Then we retired into an anteroom to COUNT THEM.

I do not think I was much use as a teller. The others put the box on a small table and gathered about it. While they counted I made vain endeavors to look over their shoulders and see what they were doing, but I couldn't get a glimpse of anything. When I ventured to protest they told me to run away and play marbles.

This count had been going on for about ten minutes in this way when Brown got his head into the room and wanted to know how I was getting along. I told him that they were not giving me a chance, whereupon he showed symptoms of giving another lesson in practical politics. But the gang outside heard him and began to pour into the room. It was a small place and one side was only roughly boarded up. The result was that Yates and Brown had a heated argument alongside this partition and finally Brown "rushed" Yates clear through it into a vacant lot back of the building, and then chased him nearly a mile over fences and through area ways. The flight of Yates showed the astuteness of the man as a politician. With Brown absent, our party was "not in it." The vote was announced: Anderson, 290; Standish, 2; and resolutions censuring the disorderly conduct of the Reform Club were passed. It was thus that the report was printed in the papers next morning, and though Brown finally caught Yates and put him to bed for nearly a week, the action had little political value.

I venture to add these few hints to the admirable discourse of Mr. Platt, which, if it had a fault, was weak in its failure to emphasize the purely physical side of practical politics. HOWARD FIELDING.

Won't Stand by the Carpenters.

CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 30.—Last night a committee from the Carpenters' Council waited upon the officials of the Brickmakers' Union and requested that the Union co-operate with the carpenters in the strike which is to be inaugurated in this city next Monday. They were asked not to employ their men on any of the buildings which the striking carpenters will leave. This morning the officials of the Brickmakers' Union refused to have anything whatever to do with the strike. Had they decided to stand by the carpenters their action would effectually tie up all building operations.

AMONG THE BROKERS.

A Dull Market—Stocks Sold and Prices Obtained To-Day.

The mining market was decidedly inactive, and the amount of stock changing hands was not large, but prices were firm, and in some instances higher.

For the first time in many months Montrose Placer made its appearance as a stock actually dealt in on the Mining Exchange, and transfers to the amount of 1,000 shares were made. Mullally was the principal seller, and appeared to have complete control of the market. The stock started out with a strong advance. The market opened with a sale of 100 shares at 55, immediately followed by a rise to 60, at which 200 shares were sold. The next quotation was 62½, and 200 shares were transferred at that figure. The stock then struck the slide and fell more rapidly than it had risen. After it had been offered in vain at 60, a bid of 58¾ was accepted, and 200 shares changed hands. A decline to 57½ then took place, and after 100 shares had been sold a further drop to 55 occurred, 200 shares bringing that amount. The market closed at 55 bid, 57½ asked.

The monthly report of the Granite Mountain was received, but it contained no startling information. All parts of the mine are looking well, and the quality of the ore continues to be about the same. Some stockholders believe that larger dividends will be declared before winter. It is stated that there are 450,000 ounces of silver that have not been sold, and that the Board of Directors are holding it for an advance, selling only enough to meet the regular $200,000 monthly dividend. The work in No. 5 is being watched with interest, as it is hoped that in the extension a body of high grade ore may be struck.

Richmond Hill touched the highest point that it has reached, 500 shares selling at 40, seller 60. The demand for this stock is not general, being confined to two or three brokers.

Yuma Copper was decidedly weaker. The market declined to 56¼, and at that price 100 shares changed hands; later 100 shares were sold at 55, seller 30.

There was little done on the curb. Elizabeth was $2.10 asked and no bids were made; 50 shares sold at $2. Skyrocket was 35c bid. Puzzle was offered at 21¼c, bid 18¾c. Large blocks of St. Joe were offered at 10.

The following quotations were made on call:

A Dainty Sandwich.

From the New York Tribune.

A dainty method of preparing bread with meat is in canape shape. Slices of nice home-made bread at least a day old are cut in oblong pieces (freed from the crust) about 2½x1½ inches in size; or in little circles with a cake cutter, about two inches in diameter. These slices should be a quarter of an inch thick. As soon as a sufficient number are cut begin tossing them in a saute pan with a little butter. As soon as they are fried a golden brown on one side, turn them and fry them on the other. When the canapes are fried set them aside and when they are cold spread them with any mince of meat or fish that you may fancy. They are very nice spread with caviare, or with a little minced lobster dressed with oil, vinegar, salt and pepper. To make anchovy canapes, spread the pieces with a little anchovy butter. Rinse some of the little fish off with cold water, drain, open and trim them. Place four little strips of anchovy on each canape, fill the three little strips of fish—the first with the chopped white of a hard-boiled egg; the second with fine chopped parsley and the chopped yolk of hard-boiled eggs. Season each canape deftly and pack them away for a luncheon party one on top of the other, with a plain slice of bread on top of the last one and a napkin pinned around them. A little pate-de-foix gras is very nice on a canape, although a mince of fish is generally used.

ON 'CHANGE.

Grain and Flour.

Wheat—Neither frost, cold weather or strong cables were on hand to help the bulls out this morning. Per contra, the weather in the Northwest was warmer, cables unfavorable, noting a falling off in the demand and 3 farthings decline, with fine weather in England. Chicago, too, was afflicted with a semi-panic and fell to nearer a parity with our own market, and every other and particular center had a violent selling paroxysm and tumbled in price. Prime's regular bull bulletin did not stay the decline, and it was a quick, sharp one. Our own market did not break like those on the outside, as there was first-rate buying. Receipts were again moderate, and the feeling did not appear to be so powerfully bearish as it has been. However, there was enough pressure to put the market down 1c. For some time the feeling was unsettled, but there was a gradual recovery, though clearances were small, and outside markets showed no snap. All of a sudden a perfect frenzy to buy wheat sprang into existence. Estimates for a decrease in the visible were circulated, there was some unofficial talk of cold weather in the North, Chicago took a sudden upward lunge and in a moment there was a wild scramble to buy in the local pit. Stories were circulated that the Art Club was under the market again, having covered their shorts and gone long, that "Old Hutch" was a big buyer here, and a thousand and one idle rumors floated around. Shorts discovered that it was Saturday, and they did not want to go over Sunday in that fix, the bulls seized their advantage and began bidding the price up and the result was a wild runaway market. After selling 2½c above the top the craze to buy subsided as rapidly as it had developed and the price declined rapidly 1⅛c, closing ⅛c below yesterday. December opened at $1.03, sold off to $1.02½ to $1.02⅞ to $1.02¼ to $1.02¼ to $1.02¼ to $1.03 to $1.02¾ straight up to $1.04½ to $1.04¼ to $1.04½ to $1.04 to $1.04½ to $1.04 to $1.04¾ to $1.03¼, closing at $1.03⅛. May opened at $1.08¾ sold down to $1.08⅜ up to $1.10⅜ to $1.09 and at close $1.09 bid. September sold at 98½c to 99⅜c and closed at 98⅜c. SPOT GRADES were strong and higher. Offerings were small, but the demand was not as good as it has been, and most of the No. 2 red sold to carriers. When futures boomed, cash could not be bought at near the call price, but the best sale of No. 2 red was at 98½c. Sales: No. 2 red—1 car in D., 2 regular, 5 in St. L. and 13 in Cdlt. at 98¼c; 2 in St L. at 98½c; on call E. side offered at $1, bid 99c. No. 2 Turkey—10 cars in St. L. at 94⅜c; bid 94½c for regular, 94⅜c for M. No. 3 red offered regular at 98c, bid 97c, and for E. side 98c bid. No. 4—90½c bid regular, 94c for U., none offered. SAMPLES were higher, and in fair request, closing firm. East track—1 car rejected at 89½c, 2 No. 4 at 92c, 2 No. 3 at 97½c, 2 do at 98c, 4 No. 2 at $1, 2 do at $1.00¼, 4 do at $1.00½. West track—1 car rejected at 78c, 1 No. 4 at 91c, 1 do at 93c, 1 No. 4 and 1 No. 3 at 97c, 4 No. 3 at 97½c. Sacks—Old: 25 sks at 90c. New: 75 and 412 sks at 90c, 25 at 92c, 195 and 252 (dumped from special bin) at 94c, 19 at 95c, 21, 65 and 40 at 97c, 79 and 28 at 98c, 45, 125, 154, 100 and 17 white at 99c, 168, 182, 300, 22 and 401 at $1, 1,200 sks on E. trk at $1.00¼.

Corn—The market was raided down about a cent this morning, the selling overpowering all signs of a demand for awhile and sweeping everything before it. Frost had not materialized in the North, but, on the contrary, the weather was warmer all over the West and Northwest. Every other market was suffering from a severe case of selling sickness and breaking rapidly in price. There were no heavy receipts anywhere except Chicago, and our own were very small, and Prime was out with one of his lugubrious wails over crop prospects, but only one side was looked at by the crowd and it was a wild rush to sell from the opening. Considerable corn bought on frost prospects was thrown, some stop order lots come out and the bears slugged the market as hard as they could. The rally in wheat helped the market up 1¼c, but it sagged back again, and at close was about ¼c below yesterday. May opened at 47c, sold down to 46⅜@½c, up to 46⅞c, down to 46⅝c, up to 47⅝c, off to 47¼c, to 47½@⅝c, down to 47@⅛c and latter asked at close. September sold at 43⅝c, up to 44¼c, and at close 44⅛c asked. October sold at 45⅜c, to 44⅝@⅞c. No. 2 white, 48⅜c bid for August and 47½c for September. October sold at 48¼c. SPOT GRADES—No. 2 was lower, while No. 2 white sold higher. The order demand was first-rate, and an exporter was after No. 2 on E. side at 44c. Sales: No. 2—1 car in St. L. at 43¾c, 1 in Cdlt. and 2 in C. at 43⅞c, 2 in A., 2 in St. L. and 3 E. side at 44c, 1 in St. L. at 44¼c; bid 43¾c for M., 44⅛c for U. No. 2 white—6 cars regular at 48½c, 21 in St. L. at 48¾c. No. 2 color offered regular at 46⅝c, bid 46½c for St. L. No. 3 white offered E. side at 47¼c, bid 46½c for St. L. and C. 47½c bid. No. 3—43c bid E. side, 43⅛c for C. Sacked lots on orders 42@43c.

Oats—Futures declined early as the large receipts, the weakness in cash and the break in corn and wheat started selling, but prices rallied and at close were firm. September sold at 32¾c off to 32⅜@½c and back to 32¾c. May opened at 38c, broke to 37⅝c and vallied to 38⅜c. SPOT GRADES were dull and lower. No. 2 offered in M. at 33c, bid 32⅝c for M. and St. L., 32½c for regulrr, 33⅛c for E. side. No 3 offered at 32½c, no bids. SAMPLES—Offerings were very large and the market was lower, caused by the heavy surplus carried over and poor demand. A large number of cars were held over until next week, receivers being unable to sell at satisfactory prices. The shipping demand for inferior grades is improving. Sales: 20 cars No. 3 at 32¼c, 2 do at 32½c, 5 No. 2 at 33¼c, 2 No. 3 color at 33¼c, 1 (light weight) No. 2 Northern at 34½c; 1 No. 4 white at 32½c; 5 No. 3 white at 33½c; 2 do at 34c; 4 do at 34¼c; 4 do at 34½c; 1 do at 35c; 5 No. 2 white at 36c. Sacked lots on orders, 42@43c.

Rye—Lower. The offerings were not much larger, but buyers stood off and a decided decline took place. Sales were made of 1 car No. 2 this side at 67c and 1 car later at 66c.

Flour—Steady and sellers firm, but market quiet, as buyers would not purchase with any freedom. Sales: 1 car skd at $3.15, 125 bbls at $3.35, 2,000 (flat hoops) extra fancy at $4.75, 100 patent at $5.20, 500 bbls on p. t.

Hay—The receipts this week have been liberal and more than enough to supply the demand, both for prairie and timothy. The market was dead dull on medium grades of timothy, which declined fully $1 per ton this week. Strictly fancy offerings were the only kind wanted by dealers, and these grades sold at full values. Low and common sold for whatever they would bring. Sales to-day—1 hot damaged prairie at $6.50, 2 prime at $9, 1 fancy Kansas at $10.50, 1 prime at $9.50, 6 do at $10, 1 strictly prime at $10.50, 1 do at $11, 1 choice at $11.50, 1 do at $12, 4 do at $12.50, 2 fancy at $13, also 15 tons on the Levee at $8.50, 1 gilt-edge timothy at $14.

Straw—Sales 1 car wheat straw at $5 per ton.

Among the sales were 50 boxes c'ribs at 6.22½c, 1 car shorts at 6.30c f. o. b, 1 car do at 6.35c, and 100 boxes do on p. t. Pork was quiet and steady. Lard dull, with 6c asked and 5⅞c bid. Early in the day 150,000 lbs dry salt 50-lb c'ribs sold to arrive at 5¼c, c. and f., but afterwards higher rates were asked and buyers would not take hold.

Lead and Spelter.

Lead—Higher again and no abatement to the strength seen. Buyers were willing enough to pay the late advance but could find little for sale. Sales were 5 cars E. side at $4.57½ and 1 car chemical at $4.60. New York quoted at $4.70 bid and $4.75 asked. Liverpool £13 5s to £13 7s 6d, which is on a parity with $5 in New York.

ON THE STREET.

[The Post-Dispatch quotations are for lots in first hands unless stated otherwise. On orders higher.]

Lower prices were the general rule this morning, especially on home-grown vegetables. Potatoes, however, were an exception, and were firm. Canners were taking a few tomatoes at the reduced prices, but are still holding off for further declines. Chickens were in liberal receipt, and probably some will have to be carried over or sold at lower prices.

Fruit.

Apples—The undesirable fruit, that continues to arrive freely, is dull and very slow of sale, and sells mainly from $1@1.50 per bbl; medium stock at $1.50@2, good to choice at $2@2.50, while fancy Pippin, Belleflower or Maidenblush range from $2.75@3 25. Sales: 20 bbls Buckingham and 12 Red Streak at $1.85, 10 Smith's Cider at $2, 8 Belleflower at $2.50, and 7 do at $2.75.

Plums—Damsons, when dry and in good shipping order, are in fair request at $3@3.50 per bu. Red varieties dull at $1.75@2 per bu.

Grapes—Arrivals were liberal, but the demand was only moderate. Ives' seedling and Elvira sold at 3c. Concord and Martha 3@4c, and Delaware at 8@10c per lb. Home-grown Concords sold on orders at 4@5c per lb, and consignments at 35c per 9-lb basket.

Commercial Notes.

Another good frost gone wrong.

Corn to-day struck low point for this break.

Moses Fraley is back from the seashore. He is bearish.

A Canadian Pacific railway official says Manitoba will raise the largest and finest crop of wheat that country has ever known.

A bear influence a week or so ago was the statement that the Province of Ontario would raise 56,000,000 bu wheat. The Ontario Bureau of Industries has just issued its report showing a total wheat crop of 24,460,000 bu.

It is estimated that the stocks of provisions at Chicago at the close of the month will show about 150,000 bbls mess pork, 110,000 to 115,000 tcs lard and 70,000,000 lbs short rib sides.

The drover's Journal says: There is considerable speculation regarding the average weight of hogs this month. Dealers place the average 20 to 30 lbs lighter than in August, 1889.

The French agricultural journals thus classify the results of the wheat harvest, viz.: Northern and Eastern departments below the average; Western departments and the districts around Paris an average; central rather good; and southern departments good, very good. The expected yield of 288,000,000 bu is not far from previous estimates. As the consumptive requirements of France are about 328,000,000 bu imports will be required of from 32,000,000 to 40,000,000 bu.

A small decrease for the week in the local stock of wheat is not improbable. Minneapolis stock is expected to decrease 620,000 bu.

The latest "on dit" is that the "Art Club" has covered all their short wheat and corn, taken on a good line of wheat and will proceed to bull it higher than ever. "Old Hutch" is said to be builing Chicago.

Late advices from Australia state that: "The weather has been, up till now, all that could be desired for the crops. The absence of severe frosts has allowed them to get well up, and they are now strong enough to stand our severest frosty nights. Altogether, farmers are hopeful of a bumper harvest."

A leading London grain trade journal states that there is unfortunately no longer reason to doubt that in some parts of Ireland, more particularly in the west, northwest and southwest, including the contiguous islands, the potato crop is diseased and in some districts very seriously. In Scotland, also, the blight appears to be spreading, and in Ayrshire much harm is said to have been done. Neither has England escaped, as the results of continuous and unseasonable rains are now to be seen in several districts, where not only potatoes, but also root crops show signs of disease and blight. The total area under potatoes in the United Kingdom is about 1,370,000 acres, say 580,000 acres in Great Britain and 790,000 acres in Ireland. In connection with this question it is interesting to note that France grows 350,000,000 acres and Germany about 725,000,000 acres of potatoes.

The Chicago "Herald" says: There is a big holding of short ribs through Dunham & Co. There are those who believe this holding belongs to the rich Hebrew crowd, so much talked of in connection with this commission house A better view, however, credits it to the old Antwerp clique which used to put so much of its business with Norton & Worthington. In other words, the buying orders are supposed to come from the connection in Antwerp and on the Continent, which sends its business wherever Strauss indicates, and he, although in Europe, is with Dunham & Co. The talk is that Armour has of late been operating to shake out this Dunham holding. Armour is supposed to own 20,000,000 lbs. of short ribs, enough certainly to cause a flurry whenever he chooses. Of course with so large a holding he would not care to have any tailers around if he meditated a campaign, either little or big. Armour, at any rate, although the biggest holder in the market, has for two or three days been moving against the prices. The Dunham crowd has not so far been disturbed. It is estimated that the stock of ribs September 1 will be 70,000,000 lbs.

Tombusch of August 14 says of the Hungarian corn crop: Official advices up to the 10th inst. report that the corn is suffering very much throughout the country from the continuance of drouth. Left of the Danube the plant is weak, the cobs undeveloped, and only in a few places satisfactory. Right of the Danube the aspect is so bad that even ample rain can hardly benefit it. Between the Danube and the Theiss the fields are very backward, and even in those places where a good crop was expected can now barely give a medium return. Right of the Theiss the crop in many places is almost a complete loss, and without speedy rain can only yield a poor return. Left of the Theiss the cobs are backward and imperfectly developed. Between the Theiss and Maros, even with rain, the prospect in only for a medium outturn. In Transylvania the fields in some localities have a promising outlook.

Beerbohm of August 14 says: "The crop reports from the country are not so favorable as might be desired; the condition in the south of England is somewhat defective and the yield disappointing. In the Midlands and in the Fen districts the yield is said to be very good, but the condition of the first samples shown leave something to be desired. The French agricultural papers report that the harvest in the north has been delayed and the quality injured by rain, so that one journal reduces its estimate of the crop to about 34,000,000 qrs; while another considers that 36,000,000 qrs may yet be reached. Meanwhile, there is not much present demand for foreign wheat. The Prussian crops, according to the official returns just published, are all considered to be 20 to 25 per cent better than last year's short yield, except potatoes, which are estimated to be 11 per cent worse than last year. The Russian shipments in the week ended 9th inst. were quite moderate, viz, 181,166 qrs. against 225,000 qrs in the corresponding week last year. Reports from the Crimean districts speak of serious disappointment in the yield of wheat on threshing. Silver is to-day quoted at 54d per ounce, and the Indian exchanges are again higher, viz. 1s 9d. Indian wheat is consequently more difficult to obtain; this fact, added to the less favorable news regarding the French crop in the north, and the rise in the American markets, makes holders very reserved.

Prime's report issued to-day says: "The moisture came too late to help the corn crop. Little corn will be safe from frost before September 15. Late threshing returns point to only half a crop of oats of poor quality. Spring wheat in Northern Dakota. The bulk of the spring wheat crop will all be in shock Saturday night. Crops of spring wheat, while they were standing on the ground, estimated at from fifteen to twenty bushels per acre have been thrashed and returns are from eight to eleven bushels and No. 2 in quality. Considerable grain is being stacked and a free movement is not looked for before the 1st of November. The ground is very dry and rains are greatly needed before fall ploughing will commence. Reports from threshing machines in Southern Dakota are making very poor returns, many fields only yielding from 2 to 7 bu., a few fields going as high as 10, and an exceptional yield as high as 20 bu. The quality is very poor. This is very generally the condition of affairs in the Jim River proper. There was some straw, enough to make 25 bu per acre, but the yield however, runs generally from 6 to 8 bu. In Northern Kansas the bulk of the threshing of winter wheat is completed. Farmers are selling very little. Fall plowing is progressing finely and about two-thirds done. Seeding ought to commence next week. From Northern and Central Indiana plowing is nearly done. The scarcity of good seed wheat will have a tendency to decrease the acreage. Seed wheat is coming now from Michigan. Very little if any wheat is moving. Southern Missouri says the movement of wheat has not increased. Farmers are busy preparing the ground for the new crop.

Chicago Market Letter.

Private Wire to J. P. Grier.

CHICAGO, Aug. 30.—Wheat opened with weak holders and buyers of yesterday unloading on easier cables and fine weather abroad and at home. After this selling there was good buying, and the market advanced sharply on covering by shorts and some bad reports from the northwest.

These latter were conflicting, however. With prospects of fine weather, the market eased off, closing below the opening price. We would look for weak spots to buy on, believing that returns from threshing will prove disappointing.

Corn was bulled by a local operator after the early decline, but we consider May corn a sale on hard spots. Good charters firmed near-by futures in comparison.

Provisions ruled lower on some placing of September product, but January closed firm, and we believe to be purchase on all weak points.

F. G. LOGAN.

Special to J. C. Ewald.

CHICAGO, Aug. 30.—Wheat—The market has been active and very weak. Early cables were weak and half penny to a penny lower, and the beautiful weather in the Northwest was rather discouraging to the chronic grumblers about crop conditions. The result was very heavy selling of long wheat, the decline being actively assisted by several prominent bears. Some reaction was caused by heavy buying said to be for St. Louis and New York account and a report that the stock at Odessa was only 800,000 bu, against 4,000,000 one year ago, but the advance caused thereby was very temporary and the market closes lower and very weak. A free liquidation has taken place in the September and October options, and when this is completed some reaction is possible, but we see no good in the market this side of $1 for December.

Corn—The brilliant weather throughout the corn belt caused free selling of long corn, opening the market weak and lower, shorts being the principal buyers. May touched 49½c, but reacted from that point on heavy buying by Hutchinson and by others buying because of the strength in wheat. If this favorable weather continues we believe in selling corn on all hard spots.

Provisions—Pork and lard have both been weak, although ribs maintained yesterday's prices to the close. There was heavy liquidation of the September pork deal, large quantities being sold for that month and bought for October.

CITY NEWS.

REMEMBER the closing hour at Crawford's to-day is 1 o'clock, at which time the clearing-out sale, which has been so successful, will be at an end. The Great Broadway Bazaar has been, and is still, doing the biggest business in town, the cause of which is the immense bargains offered by this house. Look out for to-morrow's papers, as we believe there will be something interesting contained therein relating to the stock of goods carried by the firm named.

A DEADLY DRUG.

The Experience of a Man Who Took a Dose of Morphine by Mistake.

OTTAWA, Ontario, Aug. 30.—On Tuesday night just after 12 o'clock a man came around to Night Station Master Galbraith at the Grand Trunk Station, London, and inquired if there was any place around the station where he might sleep and where there would be no people. Mr. Galbraith sent him to the waiting-room, but in a few minutes the fellow was walking up and down the station platform at a rapid gait. Not understanding what was troubling him the station master asked him what was wrong. "Oh, I made a fearful mistake a couple of hours ago," replied the man, "and I'm going to die. I'm afraid I'll die."

Further questioning elicited the information that he had been in the habit of taking stomach pills, but by mistake he had taken two large morphine pills. He had on discovering his error immediately called on Dr. Woodruff. The doctor told him, he said, that his only chance for life was to keep awake and sent him around to the police station. Sergt. Jenkins did not want to be bothered with the man and told him to go to the Grand Trunk station. "For God's sake, don't let me go to sleep," he pleaded, and the warm-hearted station master assured him he would not go to sleep around the station at any rate. Then from that time out Mr. Galbraith had a most unique experience. "The man would go to sleep in spite of me," he said, "and I had to nearly shake his head off his shoulders to keep him around at all. I locked arms with him and walked him around the streets, the station platform and all over, and had to nearly carry him sometimes. He begged piteously of me to let him have a few minutes' sleep, 'Only a few minutes,' but I would not even let him sit down."

Toward 4 o'clock in the morning he began to recover and Dr. Mitchell happened to come in on one of the trains and the station-master explained the case to him. He told the man that he had a narrow escape; that if he had gone to sleep he would most assuredly have slept forever, but that then he was sufficiently over the effects of the drug to go home and sleep. The station master willingly let the man go. He had four hours of the hardest work he ever experienced.

DR. MERRILL GATES.

He Resigns the Presidency of Two Colleges to Accept a Third.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Aug. 30.—Dr. Merrill Gates of Rutgers College resigned the presidency of two colleges to-day and accepted that of a third. In June he was elected President of Oberlin College, Ohio. In July Amherst College elected him President. Pressure was brought to bear on him to retain him at Rutgers, but he sent his letter of resignation to the trustees, at the same time refusing the call to Oberlin. Dr. Gates is the son of Seth Merrill Gates of Warsaw, an abolitionist and journalist. He was educated at the Rochester University. In 1870, the year of his graduation, he became principal of the Albany Academy. In 1882 he succeeded Dr. Campbell as President of Rutgers. In 1884 he was appointed member of the United States Board of Indian Commissioners.

Dr. T. S. Doolittle will act as President until the meeting of the Rutgers trustees in September. The candidates mentioned for Dr. Gates' chair are Dr. Doolittle of New Brunswick, Dr. W. J. R. Taylor of Hoboken and Prof. Austin Scott of New Brunswick. Dr. Gates takes charge of Amherst College in October.

Excursions East and Southeast.

The Ohio & Mississippi Railway will sell excursion tickets at one fare for the round trip to Harper's Ferry, Staunton and other points in the Virginias, Chattanooga, Atlanta and other points in the Southeast, good going September 9 and 23 and October 14, limit returning thirty days. For further information address A. J. Lytle, General Western Passenger Agent, 105 North Broadway, St. Louis, Mo.

SONS OF VETERANS.

Closing Work of the Encampment at St. Joseph, Mo.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Aug. 30.—The Sons of Veterans encampment has been ended, and the work of the session concluded. E. J. Sansousa of New Jersey has been elected Lieutenant-General of the order, and R. Lockbenzteine of Missouri Major-General. Charles A. Bookwalter of Indiana, Henry Fraze of Ohio, N. L. Harrison of New York, Mose P. O'Brien of Nebraska, and D. P. Hurbrook of Massachusetts are the new members of the Council in Chief.

The Committee on Badges found that Maj. Davis, the father of the order, was furnishing badges at prices which gave him enormous and unreasonable profits, and cost the order several thousand dollars a year. The committee reported a resolution knocking about 40 per cent off the price of all badges, and the resolution passed. Maj. Davis, the father of the order, accepted the new scale of prices.

The near relative amendment was laid over until next year.

Commander-in-Chief Webb has announced that Clay D. Howard of Erie, Kan., will be his Adjutant, and Col. Hazleton of Norton, Kan., his Quartermaster-General.

Fall Excursion to the Seashore.

The Ohio & Mississippi Railway will sel tickets from St. Louis to Old Point Comfort and return for excursion leaving September 5 and 6, at the low rate of $22.60. For further information call at Ohio & Mississippi ticket offices or apply to A. J. Lytle, General Western Passenger Agent, 105 North Broadway, St. Louis, Mo.

The Coldwater (Mich.) Cyclone.

COLDWATER, Mich., Aug. 30.—A cyclone passed over this city Thursday night, doing a great amount of damage. The cart company's paint shop and store room, a building 40x180 feet, three stories high, was entirely demolished, and a great quantity of partly finished work ruined, the damage amounting to several thousand dollars. The wheelbarrow factory was unroofed. Large trees were torn up by the roots, fences leveled, many orchards ruined and outbuildings overturned.

"GAME" TENNY A COWARD

PULSIFER'S SPEEDY LITTLE SWAYBACK LACKING IN PLUCK.

How He Has Quit in Nearly All His Races—The Browns Secure Another Victory at Baltimore—Closing Day at Brighton Beach and Guttenburg—Sporting News of All Kinds.

EASTERN turf writers, almost to a man, are in the habit of frequently referring to Tenny as "that game little horse." This and similar phrases have been applied so often in the newspapers to Dave Pulsifer's little swayback that the public have grown to regard the colt as the gamest horse on the turf. A mere erroneous impression could not be spread. If there is any one quality Tenny lacks it is gameness. In fact he is a "quitter" of the worst kind. Nearly all his races have shown this. When he met Salvator in the Suburban Handicap he did make a remarkable finish when the great run of Prince Charlie had almost a hopeless lead on him, but Tenny made it under constant applications of the whip and spur and not from any natural ambition and pluck. In fact there was so little gameness about the colt that he permitted Cassius and Salvator to run right away from him in the early part of the race and no amount of ordinary urging and riding on Garrison's part would make him increase his pace enough to keep near them. It was not until the whip and spur were applied as persuaders that Tenny began to run and displayed that wonderful burst of speed which came so near landing him a winner. In his match with Salvator it was the same old story. Tenny did not want to run, and urge him as he would Garrison could not make the little grandson of Rayon d'Or keep the pace the big chestnut had set. In fact, Tenny kept falling further and further behind until his rider in the last half mile resorted to whip and spur, and then once more Tenny astounded people by his phenomenal speed and came within an ace of winning. It was a forced gait, however, for every jump was made in response to whip and spur, and Garrison stated after the race that before Tenny commenced his grand finish he attempted to balk and quit and only by the most vigorous punishment was prevented from doing so. In the Champion Stakes Tenny was kept moving in the lead but tired of the pace and quit like a cur in the stretch. After Salvator shot by him Garrison had to whip his colt to keep him from coming to a standstill before the wire was reached. It was the worse kind of a case of weakening. Again, when Firenzi beat him only a few days before, Tenny failed to display the slightest evidence of ambition or gameness. Tenny is a phenomenal sprinter, perhaps the greatest on the turf, but his lack of pluck is what militates against him at cup distances. When he has not beaten his field after traveling a fair distance he loses heart and wants to quit as soon as he is challenged by a horse who has the speed to give him a run.

Bogus Pedigrees.

The Breeder and Sportsman does a good service in exposing the bogus pedigrees of certain American horses shipped to Australia. The foreign market for American trotters has been improving and opening up for years, but the prejudices and lack of knowledge on the part of our foreign customers concerning our horses are a far less serious obstacle in the way of opening foreign market than the rascality of some of our own exporters. A few years ago this swindling business was carried on to such length by American exporters to Buenos Ayres that it was, we believe, brought to the notice of the American Consul by the Argentine Government, and one of the best foreign markets was in danger of being practically closed against us. The temptation to buy cheap plugs and manufacture pedigrees that will deceive the unsophisticated South American, European or Australian may seem attractive to unscrupulous dealers, but the swindle can not be carried on very long, and when the exposure comes it injures the particular market in which the deception has been practiced, and all American horses are shunned and feared. The shipment of worn-out and outclassed trotters is another phase of the trade that has worked incalculable injury to our export trade. When our foreign customers find that the horses they import fall so far below their represented capacity in America they learn to distrust our turf system and our records. It is clearly, then, to the interest of the American breeders to do not only take an active part in exposing and heading off dishonest exporters, but to do their utmost as well to discourage the exportation of inferior or worn-out specimens of the American trotter. Self-interest dictates the course even if the question of honorable dealing were not involved. The best, the only way, to open up and develop markets on other continents for the peerless harness horse of America is to familiarize the people whose trade we seek with the characteristics and excellencies of this horse as seen in choice specimens of the kind. If we allow them to judge by the refuse, the cast-offs and has-beens of the breed we must not expect our foreign friends to know and appreciate the trotting horse for what he is. If the foreign buyer be fairly treated and given the worth of his money there need be no fear concerning the development of foreign markets.

To-Morrow's Bicycle Runs.

The Missouri Bicycle Club will run to St. Charles to-morrow, leaving their club-house at 8:30 a. m. sharp. The St. Charles Rock road is reported to be in fine condition and the many coasts will therefore be doubly enjoyed. The club will be the first body of cyclists to cross the new pontoon bridge which crosses the river right at the end of the rock road and obviates the former disagreeable ride through the sandy bottom to reach the ferry landing. On their arrival at St. Charles, the participants in this run will visit the various points of interest and be shown through a brewery. Wheelmen who are not club members are invited to take part in this run.

The Cycling Club will leave on a moon light run to Ballwin at 8 o'clock to-night via the famous Manchester road, Capt. Jordan promises all participants an enjoyable ride free from scorching. Many club members have signified their intention of taking part and the run promises to be one of the best attended yet held. There is a charm about night riding which always makes occasional runs of this kind very welcome. The cycles seem to run easier and hills are climed with but little exertion. The road is illuminated with electric lamps as far as Benton. A light lunch will be served to the riders when they arrive at Ballwin. Sunday will be spent in walking trips to the county line and exploring the roads about Ballwin.

Pastimes Cocked Hat Team.

At a meeting of the Pastime Cocked Hat Team held Thursday the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Board of Directors, James Bartlett, Jr., A. Cobb and James L. Williams; Secretary, Ed Adams; Representative to League of Board of Management, Burd James; Captain of Team, Joseph A. Deffry. Seige Alleys were selected as the team's alleys. To the Pastimes belongs the honor of having suggested the formation of the present league and their close match with the present champions, the Grands, make them a formidable candidate for the league championship. They have done much to popularize this splendid sport.

A Pair of Jacks.

In regard to the offer of the Ormonde Club of London to give a purse for him and Jack Burke to contest for, Jack Dempsey says he wants to know who is the champion middleweight of England before he fights any of the many claimants, and then he will toss a coin to decide whether he will go there to fight or the man will come here. Jack Burke has been regarded as a heavy-weight, although one of the lighter men in that class and Dempsey says that if he meets Burke he will insist on the middle-weight limit of 154 pounds being observed, and will not concede an ounce. Burke can scarcely come down to this weight. Burke fought two draws with Charley Mitchell and also fought Dempsey a ten-round draw with the gloves, although the Nonpareil's friends claim he should have been given the decision over Burke. Dempsey is somewhat put out at the action of the Ormonde Club in transacting their business for the fight through Richard K. Fox instead of directly with himself.

Colored Fighters.

Gardner Collins, the local colored heavyweight champion, whipped an unknown colored giant last night for a purse of $100. The unknown was produced by Rufus Sharp, the local colored middleweight champion, who has been looking for a man to down Collins. He found this giant, who was a perfect Samson in strength, but lacked science and soon quit.

Pitcher Ed Daily of the defunct Brooklyn Association Club has been signed by Louisville. He is the player whom the New York National League Club signed and released again when the Association clubs complained about stealing the players. Mr. Von der Ahe also wanted to sign Daily.

Joe Gerhardt took Higgins' place at second on the Browns yesterday. It is hard to see how a club is to be benefitted by back numbers. If a player, who is in his prime, cannot be secured, a young man who is improving in his work is far preferable to an old timer who is on the decline.

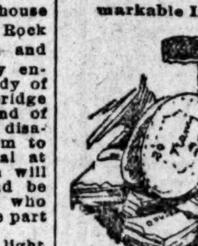
MINING IN ARIZONA.

GREAT ADVANCE IN VALUE OF ST. LOUIS PROPERTIES IN THAT TERRITORY.

The Advance in Silver Leads to the Re-opening of a Large Number of Mines—Peculiarities of Arizona Ledges—Low-Grade and High-Grade Districts—Remarkable Increase in Immigration.



THIS morning John P. Eppley of Prescott, Ariz., arrived in the city and is at the Lindell. Mr. Eppley has been examining a number of Arizona silver and copper properties in the interest of St. Louis mine owners and will soon have his report prepared. "Hitherto the investments in Arizona made by St. Louisans have not been as profitable as might have been wished, but the prospects now are that a great change will take place. No mining district has been so faverably affected by the silver bill as Arizona.

LOW-GRADE MINES.

"We have in our Territory a great number of mines and nearly all carry a large amount of ore, but with few exceptions they are to be classed as low-grade. They are extensive and very few of the veins have ever been known to peter out, but in spite of this Arizona is full of abandoned properties. This is not because the mines have produced much less ore than had been calculated upon, but the reason is to be found in the high cost of working. In our territory it is an expensive matter to run a mine. Wages are high, fuel is scarce and freights are frequently exorbitant. The high cost of freight prevents us from shipping our ores to smelters located at some central point, as the Colorado men do, and if we attempt to treat them at the mine the expense of the necessary fuel, added to the cost of transporting machinery and supplies, has rendered a profit impossible.

THE PRESENT OUTLOOK.

"A great deal of work has been done at a loss for the reason that in scores of cases the yield was almost sufficient to show a balance on the right side of the ledger, and the owners kept on in hopes of a rise in silver or a slight improvement in the quality of the ore, which would have changed a losing investment to a very profitable one. The rise in silver incident to the passage of the silver bill will cause scores, even hundreds, of mines to be reopened in Arizona that have been shut down. People who are not familiar with the ledges in this section of the country do not appreciate the great change that a rise to $1.10 an ounce and over involves. In high grade districts, where the character of the ore is rich and the amount comparatively small, the influence is not so much, but with us the amount of ore is immense, and a profit of a few dollars a ton means in the aggregate a great many hundreds of thousands of dollars. At the prices that prevailed before the passage of the bill a majority of mines in the territory just fell short of yielding a profit.

ADVANCE IN VALUE.

"Now they will pay expenses, and from $5 to $20 a ton. This is not large on a single ton, but on thousands it will be very handsome, and there is scarcely a mine in the territory that has not an ample supply of ore on hand. Already an immense amount of ore has been shipped to smelters from the old dumps. This ore is piled up by the thousand tons, not being rich enough to pay for treatment, but at present prices it is profitable. A great deal of speculation has been done in the purchase and sale of dumps, and those with a little capital are buying them up on all sides. One effect of the bill has been largely to increase the immigration to the Territory. When I left people were pouring in, the railroads had increased the size of their trains, and real estate in all the towns had risen sharply. Arizona, with a good price on silver, is bound to become one of the leading mining districts of the country, as in no other section is so much ore to be found."

TO-NIGHT'S TWO OPENINGS.

Commencement of the Season at Havlin's and the Standard—Schnaider's Close.

The opening at Havlin's, formerly the People's, occurs this evening, the attraction being "Only a Woman's Heart," a comedy-drama, which has attracted considerable attention wherever it has been presented. The play is said to be a revision of "A Noble Outcast," in which Mr. Punch Robertson appeared as the tramp, and in which he did some very fair work. The other members of the company are very well spoken of, and the organization is said to be a very evenly balanced one in every way. The success of Havlin's, under the Havlin & Hagan management, is generally predicted in theatrical circles. They have an unbroken line of successful amusement ventures, and it is not at all probable that they will do anything but add to it in this case. They have made a great change in the house by running a new entrance into the house from the corner of Sixth and Walnut streets, abandoning the old one on the Sixth street side. Mr. Havlin arrived in the city this morning from Cincinnati, accompanied by several other gentlemen, to witness the opening of the house. The prices have been scaled down, and at the matinees, which will be given on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Sundays, there will be only one price for seats.

THE STANDARD THEATER.

Manager Smith will open his house to the public to-night with "The City Club" as the attraction. The programme is a melange of burlesque, farce and special feature, the company containing some of the best talent in these lines. There will be an olio of specialties by well-known favorites. Mat Morgan's pictures will be a feature of the bill, and famous art works will be reproduced in tableaux. The burlesque "O Home-in-Stead" will be presented by thirty attractive burlesquers.

CLOSING PERFORMANCES AT SCHNAIDER'S.

Only two more performances, to-night and to-morrow night, will be given at Schnaider's. "Girofle-Girofla," which retains its popularity, will be the attraction.

TOURISTS will always find it desirable to spend a few days in New York City. It is the center of wealth, has a variety of amusements and enjoys means of easy communication with many winter and summer resorts, in which advantages it is unsurpassed by any other city. The Buckingham is deservedly popular because it is accessible, luxurious and homelike. Having been recently enlarged, it is now complete in all the appointments of a first-class house.—[New York Times.

Damages Against a Railroad.

Mrs. Sallie Shallcross this morning filed suit in the United States Circuit Court for $5,000 damages against the St. Louis, Kansas City & Colorado Railway. Her husband, Richard W. Shallcross, was a conductor in the employ of the company, and was killed on May 8, 1890, in an accident, his train being thrown down an embankment. The accident was caused, it is charged, by the negligence of the company in failing to keep the road in proper repair.

As a Rule,

It is best not to attempt to remedy costiveness by the use of saline or drastic purgatives. When a cathartic medicine is needed, the most prompt and beneficial is Ayer's Pills. Their effect is to restore the regular action of the bowels, without weakening them. Being sugar-coated, these Pills retain their medicinal virtues for a long time, and are easy to take.

"I can recommend Ayer's Pills above all others, having long proved their value as a cathartic for myself and family."—J. T. Hess, Leithsville, Pa.

"In 1858, by the advice of a friend, I began the use of Ayer's Pills as a remedy for biliousness, constipation, high fevers, and colds. They served me better than anything I had previously tried, and I have used them in attacks of that sort ever since."—H. W. Hersh, Judsonia, Ark.

METEOROLOGICAL FACTS.

Temperature, Rain and Frost Records From St. Louis' History.

In a frame that hangs in the "instrument room" of the Signal Service quarters in the dome of the Custom House is a condensed weather history of St. Louis for nineteen years. It is an interesting exhibit, and the following extract from it, if preserved, will serve to settle many disputes when the mercury is expanding or contracting to extraordinary degrees. This extract shows the mean temperature for each of the nineteen years, and the maximum and the minimum temperatures recorded in those years. It will be seen that the mean varies but little from year to year, though the highest and lowest temperatures are more unruly. In eighteen of the nineteen years the temperature got down to zero, in seven years it got down to 10 deg. below zero, and only once did it get below 20 dag. below zero. In only seven years did the mercury get to 100, and only four times was it above 100. The mean maximum for twenty years is 98.3.

The heaviest fall of rain in a single day (of twenty-four hours) since the establishment of the signal service twenty years ago was on June 16, 1888, when 4.64 inches of rain fell. On February 19, 1882, 4.44 inches fell, but there is no other record approaching within an inch of the fall of June 16, 1888.

Farmers say there will be an early frost this year. They have a variety of cheap reasons for this belief, but few of them can tell what date would be early for a frost in this locality. The signal service record begins in 1875, and is as follows:

TOO MANY WIVES.

Charles B. French to Be Taken Back to Denver.

This evening Detective Linton of Denver will return home, having in charge Charles B. French, the socalled brakeman-bigamist. Officer Linton arrived in St. Louis yesterday evening. On his way from Colorado he stopped in Jefferson City and had Gov. Francis approve the requisition papers issued to him by the Colorado authorities. He says the Denver wife is very bitter against French and insists that she will prosecute him at all hazards. She has been in active correspondence with the Portland (Ore.) wife, whose expenses to and from Oregon will be paid by the County Commissioners in order that she may attend the trial. With this assistance from the county authorities Linton is sure that a case can be made against the prisoner. French refuses to talk. He says he has told all he has to tell at present and will reserve his defense for the trial. The man is in very bad health, having suffered with consumption for several years. On this account alone he is to be pitied.

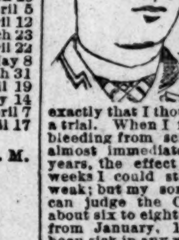
AN ECZEMA 17 YEARS

Cured in 8 Weeks. One of the greatest Cures Ever Performed by the Cuticura Remedies.



At the age of three months a rash (which afterwards proved to be eczema or salt rheum) made its appearance on my face. Physician after physician was called. None of them did me any good at all, but made me worse. The disease continued unabated; it spread to my arms and legs, till I was laid up entirely, and from continually sitting on the floor on a pillow my limbs contracted so that I lost all control of them, and was utterly helpless. My mother would have to lift me out and into bed. I could get around the house on my hands and feet, but I could not get my clothes on at all, and had to wear a sort of dressing-gown. My hair had all matted down or fallen off, and my head, face and ears were one scab. The disease continued in this manner until I was 17 years old, and one day in January, 1879, I read an account in the Tribune of your CUTICURA REMEDIES. It described my case so exactly that I thought, as a last resort, to give them a trial. When I first applied them I was all raw and bleeding from scratching myself, but I went asleep almost immediately, something I had not done for years, the effect was so soothing. In about two weeks I could stand straight, but not walk, I was so weak; but my sores were nearly well. As near as I can judge the CUTICURA REMEDIES cured me in about six to eight weeks, and up to this date (i. e., from January, 1879, to January, 1887) I have not been sick in any way, or have had the least signs of the disease reappearing on me.
